Attorney Planning Appeal In Collins Murder Case

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — John Norman Collins marked his first full day as a convicted murderer today in a triple-locked cell at the Washtenaw County Jail.

But the slim 23-year-old has little more than a week left here before he begins serving a mandatory life sentence behind the walls of Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson.

Appeal Planned

Defense attorney Neil Fink announced plans to appeal shortly after Collins was convicted Wednesday of first-degree murder in last summer's torture slaying of 18-year-old Karen Sue Beineman. Wednesday's guilty verdict ended more than a year of agonized waiting for the dead Eastern Michigan University coed's family in Grand Rapids and for Collins' own relatives.

Wanted In California

While the appeal of Wednesday's conviction drags through Michigan courts, the State of California will be making legal efforts of its own to bring Collins to trial on a murder indictment issued in Salinas last April.

The governors of the two states will decide if Collins will be tried for the California killing in June, 1969, of 17-year-old Roxie Ann Phillips, a vacationer from Milwaukie, Ore.

Officials in the Monterey County prosecutor's office in Salinas confirmed Wednesday that they will seek permission to bring Collins there once he is formally sentenced Aug. 28 by Washtenaw County Circuit Judge John Conlin. Collins, who jail attendants say has lost nearly 40 pounds since his arrest July 31, 1969, heard jury foreman William Billmeier read the guilty verdict without flinching.

Stares At Foreman

He stared soundlessly at the jury foreman and then at the judge. The youth's mother, Mrs. Loretta Collins of Center Line, Mich., stared straight ahead as the decision was announced. But within minutes, she and her daughter, Mrs. Gail Dale, were in tears.

"I'm going to fight this every step," Mrs. Collins said afterward. "I'm not going to let them keep my son. I want John home with me."

A juror, who asked that his name not be used, said that when the jury took its first ballot, the vote was five guilty, four innocent and three undecided. "From then on," the juror said, "it was the accumulation of everything—by taking everything and making a chain."

Mrs. Collins Prays, Claims Son Innocent

ANN ARBOR (AP)—"I'm not going to let them keep my son," said a tearful Mrs. Loretta Collins. "I want John home with me."

Soon after her son was convicted of first-degree murder in the sex slaying of an Eastern Michigan University coed, Mrs. Collins went to the rectory of St. Thomas Roman Catholic Church in Ann Arbor.

She and her daughter, Mrs. Gail Dale, prayed in the church often while the jury spent days in deliberation.

Sobbing, she said, "I know my son didn't do it. I know he's innocent. I just know he is."

Her red-eyed daughter sat quietly in the rectory, while she spoke.

The daughter broke up in the courtroom shortly after the verdict against her 23-year-old brother was announced.

In the courtroom—sealed after the spectators and jurors left—Mrs. Collins—dry-eyed—went to her daughter's side. After putting an arm around her shoulder, Mrs. Collins broke out weeping.

Tears—the size of raindrops—fell on the red, white, and blue dress of Mrs. Dale.

Later, the two women and were led out a side door—where her son had been led to and from court during the days of trial—and escaped most of the newsmen after leaving the building.

The Rev. Patrick Jackson, a priest at the church, accompanied the women.

"But I just don't know where I'm going to get the money. Where am I going to get the money? I don't have any money," she said about the need to continue her son's defense.

A bailiff said, "All along she told the others in the family to be strong—no matter what. She told them they all had to help John, even if the worst came.

"I have as much admiration for that woman as I've had for any I've ever seen," the bailiff said.

[illegible] Other Slayings

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Washtenaw County Prosecutor William F. Delhey says he is still under court order from commenting on any possible involvement of John Norman Collins in any other murder cases, [illegible] after the conviction [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] Karen Sue Beineman. Delhey told newsmen that he [illegible] comment "with respect to any possible involvement of Collins" of other unsolved cases until the 23-year-old former Eastern Michigan University student is sentenced. That is scheduled for Aug. 28.

Miss Beineman was the last of seven young women slain in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in a two-year period. No charges have been filed in the other six cases.

Collins has been indicted in Salinas, Calif. in the 1969 slaying of Roxie Ann Phillips, 17, of Milwaukie, Ore. Her body was found in a dump near Carmel, Calif.

Delhey said the problem of whether Collins will be extradited to California in the case will be up to the governors of both California and Michigan.

Circuit Court Judge John W. Conlin went into the prosecutor's office and then left shortly before the news conference. Delhey later admitted to newsmen he asked the judge whether the prohibition to discuss any possible involvement with other cases was still in effect. Delhey said the judge told him, "Yes."

Delhey said the other six cases were still under investigation.

ABM Wins Out; All-Volunteer Army Next Item

WASHINGTON (AP) — With unsuccessful efforts to curb the Safeguard antimissile system out of the way, the Senate is plunging into a new controversy over replacing the draft with an all-volunteer Army.

Leaders of an unusual coalition seeking to junk the draft say debate will be extensive. And unless they get an agreement permitting a straight yes or no vote on merits of the question, they say they just might keep on talking.

The Safeguard issue was laid to rest Wednesday when the Senate voted 52-45 against an amendment by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., that would have barred ABM expansion to two new sites and used the $[illegible] million saved to bolster defenses at the two sites authorized last year.

Then, on an 87-2 roll call, it crushed an amendment by Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., that would have required governors to obtain presidential permission before issuing weapons and live ammunition to National Guard troops in civil disorders.

Only Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., voted with McCarthy for the amendment which was triggered by criticism of the role of Ohio National Guard troops in the killing of four students at Kent State University last May.

Republican Raps Pentagon Policy On 'False Claims'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, has criticized the Pentagon for what she termed a failure to debunk irresponsible charges—like the false report of a death.

She said, the Defense Department remained mum about a congressman's claim last year that a biological warfare worker had died of a laboratory-prompted disease at Ft. Detrick, Md.

Mrs. Smith told the Senate Wednesday that "The truth is that the man did not die. He did contract pneumonic plague in September 1969 but he was cured and returned to duty in less than three weeks after having the plague."

Mrs. Smith declared she is "sick and tired of the constant maligning campaign of derogation and false accusations" against the nation's defense establishment and its personnel.

"But I am even more appalled at the failure of the top officials of the Department of Defense to defend dedicated personnel and to vigorously refute the false accusations made."

Mrs. Smith is ranking GOP member of the Armed Services Committee.

Kopechnes Critical Of Two Of Ted's Friends

[illegible] (AP) — The [illegible] Mary Jo Kopechne [illegible] two [illegible] Sen. Edward M. Kennedy [illegible] the accident that took her daughter's life last summer.

Writing in the current issue of McCall's Magazine, Mrs. Kopechne also said she believed Kennedy's story that he was driving Mary Jo to the ferry on Chappaquiddick Island when he took a wrong turn and his car plunged off a wooden bridge. Miss Kopechne drowned. Kennedy escaped serious injury but did not report the accident to authorities for several hours.

Criticizes Judge

Mrs. Kopechne was highly critical of the inquest into the accident. Referring to Judge James A. Boyle's statement that he believed Kennedy had lied about his destination, she wrote:

"This conclusion, by a man who didn't know Mary Jo, leaves a bad taste in our mouths and we absolutely reject it and any implications that flow from it."

Ted's Friends Rapped

The behavior of Kennedy's two friends, Joseph Gargan and Paul Markham, is inexplicable and was not explained at the inquest, Mrs. Kopechne said. She asked why they did not call authorities when Kennedy, having escaped from the submerged car, summoned them to help him try to rescue Mary Jo.

Markham, reached for comment in Boston, said: "I gave what I thought was all the facts I am aware of under oath at the inquest, which is now a matter of public information. I don't want to comment further on it."

No Calls Made

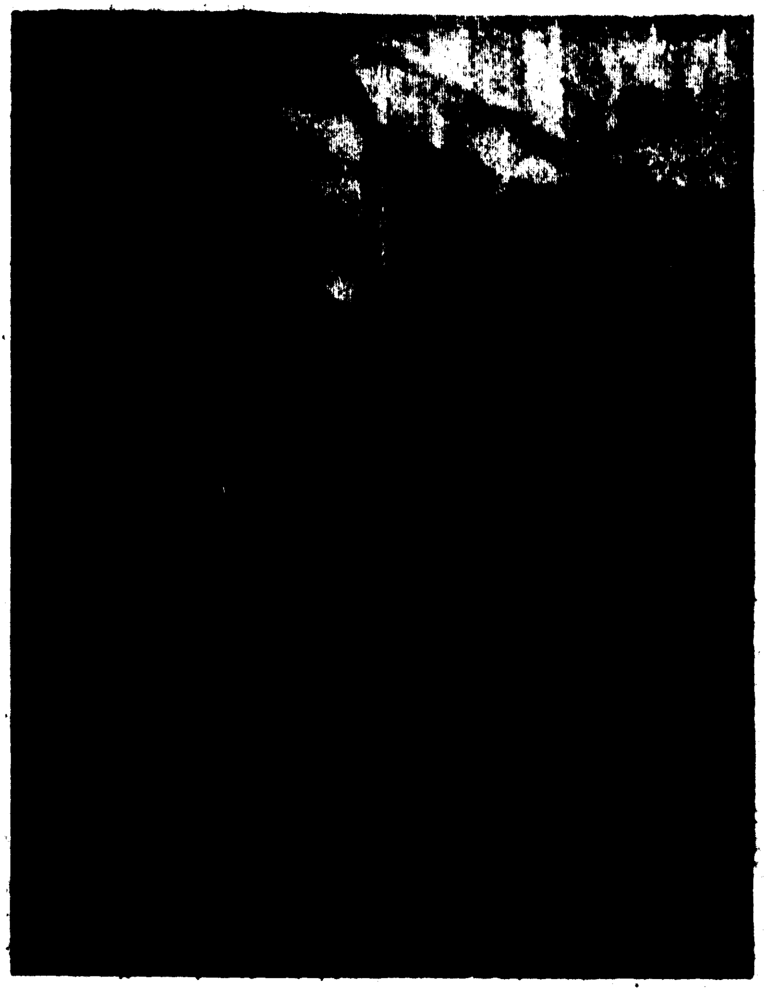
Mrs. Kopechne said she believed the senator was in shock after the accident, thus explaining his failure to notify authorities. But she said that the friends, "both cool-headed lawyers," did not even call Edgartown to report Ted was safe at Martha's Vineyard after he swam from Chappaquiddick.

Edward Kennedy was not a romantic attraction for her daughter, Mrs. Kopechne wrote. In fact, most of her time had been taken up with her first love, politics, and working for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Dated Seriously

But the 28-year-old Mary Jo had dated seriously, her mother said, and had declared her intention to marry a foreign service officer, who was not named.

Mrs. Kopechne expressed regret at having been excluded from the inquest and said "jumbled testimony" and "inconsistencies and contradictions" left her and Mary Jo's father "in many ways ... no better off than we were before the inquest was held."



MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH KOPECHNE have taken issue with the behavior of two of Sen. Ted Kennedy's friends following the accident which took the life of their daughter, Mary Jo. Both felt the two Kennedy aides, Joseph Gargan and Paul Markham should have called for help after Kennedy reported the accident. Stockholders Turn To Courts Seeking Recovery Of Losses

NEW YORK (AP) — More and more stockholders are turning to the courts in an effort to recoup some of the losses they've suffered during a 21-month bear market, legal experts report.

Suits Increasing

"The fact that they've taken a beating in the market during the past year and a half definitely has led to the increasing number of suits against brokerage houses and corporations," said Stanley L. Kaufman, a New York attorney who has handled many stockholder actions.

"People had a way of forgetting when everything was going well and all kinds of young sideburned tycoons and geniuses were putting corporations together, building empires and conglomerates, making irresponsible statements and, in fact, violating the laws," Kaufman said.

Protected By Laws

"The public paid no attention as long as they were making money, but when the bubble burst people said: 'Here are these laws to protect me, so why not use them. What has happened in the past year shows the wisdom of the securities laws passed after the Great Depression," he said.

Some experts in securities law estimate that several hundred stockholder suits currently are active across the country. Alan R. Bromberg, a professor at Southern Methodist University who specializes in securities law, thinks there will be more.

Although the legal experts say the declining market and recent brokerage house failures gave impetus to new stockholder litigation, the "liberal" interpretation of federal securities laws and regulations by the courts is cited by some as an important contributing factor.

Can Sue Principals

In Houston recently, a judge held that the trustee for a company reorganizing under the federal bankruptcy laws has the authority to sue the principals on behalf of all the stockholders.

"I think you're going to see much more of this where the trustees are trying to recover for the shareholders and the company when the insiders have manipulated the stock," Bromberg said.

Recently a New York man sued a brokerage house for "churning" his account. Churning, or excessive trading in order to earn commissions, has been illegal for many years but legal sources said recovery in the past usually was limited to the amount of commissions.

GIs Who Quit Drugs Could Gain Amnesty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon task force recommended today establishment of a trial program to grant amnesty to U.S. servicemen who voluntarily stop using illegal drugs and seek help in kicking the habit.

The massive report, made public as it was submitted to a Senate subcommittee probing the extent of drug abuse in the armed services, stressed the trial nature of the program which already has been instituted in parts of South Vietnam where it is reported "having a salutary and beneficial effect."

"The task force deliberated long and hard on this recommendation," said Vice Adm. William P. Mack, head of the group, "because there must be a balancing of seeking to rehabilitate an individual with the equally important and necessary precept of military life which is discipline."

In testimony prepared for the subcommittee, Mack said the country's drug abuse problem "has grown radically ... in the last few years, and particularly in the high school age group from where the majority of armed forces recruits and draftees are obtained."

The extent of such abuse in the armed forces, he added, probably is "not more widespread than in the civilian population [illegible] just as very serious," he said. [illegible]

Although efforts are being made to keep such drugs from the servicemen, he said, "for the foreseeable future, we must continue to anticipate an atmosphere in which dangerous drugs ... are relatively easy to obtain."

Syria Smashes Overthrow Plot

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's Baath Socialist government has smashed a plot by the rival Baathist faction in Iraq to overthrow it, a Beirut newspaper which speaks for the Syrian Baathists reported today.

Arab diplomats confirmed the report in the newspaper Al-Rayah.

The report said the coup was to have been staged "with active support from Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan and Syria." It said the Iraqi Baathists allotted $[illegible] million to the plot, and the Syrian regime seized some of it.

The diplomats said the Syrian government in June arrested hundreds of supporters of the Iraqi Baathists, and all of them are still in jail.

The diplomats said Syrian authorities had not decided whether to bring the alleged conspirators to trial or use them as a bargaining card with the Iraqis.

The Iraqis have been making overtures for reconciliation with the Syrians, especially during the current rift between Iraq and Egypt over Egyptian acceptance of the U.S. Mideast peace initiative.

Guerrillas Mum On Kidnap Plans

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Tupamaro guerrillas remained silent today on their plans for two kidnaped foreigners. Police, facing the possibility the strategy is being directed from inside jail, tried to isolate captured guerrilla leaders from the outside world.

No authenticated messages have been received from the guerrillas since Aug. 11, when they reported in a communique that American agronomist Claude L. Fly, 65, and Brazilian consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41, were in good health.

Police reported on Wednesday the discovery of a letter from a jailed Tupamaro leader to another guerrilla chief urging determination to remain [illegible] cause they had more to gain the longer the two hostages were held.

Prosecutor Not Talking About Other Slayings

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Washtenaw County Prosecutor William H. Delhey says he is still under court order from commenting on any possible involvement of John Norman Collins with any other murder case.

Syria Smashes Overthrow Plot

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's Baath Socialist government has smashed a plot by the rival Baathist faction in Iraq to overthrow it, a Beirut newspaper which speaks for the Syrian Baathists reported today.

Arab diplomats confirmed the report in the newspaper Al-Rayah.

The report said the coup was to have been staged "with active support from Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan and Syria." It said the Iraqi Baathists allotted $33 million to the plot, and the Syrian regime seized some of it.

The diplomats said the Syrian government in June arrested hundreds of supporters of the Iraqi Baathists, and all of them are still in jail.

The diplomats said Syrian authorities had not decided whether to bring the alleged conspirators to trial or use them as a bargaining card with the Iraqis.

The Iraqis have been making overtures for reconciliation with the Syrians, especially during the current rift between Iraq and Egypt over Egyptian acceptance of the U.S. Mideast peace initiative.

Guerrillas Mum On Kidnap Plans

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Tupamaro guerrillas remained silent today on their plans for two kidnaped foreigners. Police, facing the possibility the strategy is being directed from inside jail, tried to isolate captured guerrilla leaders from the outside world.

No authenticated messages have been received from the guerrillas since Aug. 11, when they reported in a communique that American agronomist Claude L. Fly, 65, and Brazilian consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41, were in good health.

Police reported on Wednesday the discovery of a letter from a jailed Tupamaro leader to another guerrilla chief urging the terrorists to remain silent because they had more to gain the longer the two hostages were held.

Williams Urges Greater Leadership From Court

By DAVE ANDREWS

G. Mennen Williams, the man they call Soapy, Wednesday night said he believes the Supreme Court can exercise greater leadership in the judicial process in Michigan.

Williams, speaking to a Democrat Party dinner at the Sherman Hotel on a campaign tour through the Upper Peninsula, suggested that the court "could focus attention" on problems of the judiciary, possibly by sending periodic messages to the legislature.

"A lot of our young people have lost confidence in the judicial process," he said. "The Supreme Court has a real challenge to try and restore a higher degree of confidence of the people of Michigan."

Cites Burger Speech

The former governor of Michigan, a staunch Democrat who is seeking his party's nomination for the non-partisan Supreme Court ballot, was limited in his remarks on issues facing Michigan because, if elected, he may be asked to rule on them and speaking now could be cause for disqualification later.

But he cited U. S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger's speech to the American Bar Association, quoting Burger as saying that in an age of supermarkets the American judicial system is a "cracker-barrel" operation.

Williams pointed to crowded court dockets in Michigan and asked "How long does it take to go to trial?"

When there are long delays in adjudicating criminal or civil cases, he said, that "isn't the kind of justice that inspires the confidence of the people."

Can "Focus" Attention

Williams said he's sure the Supreme Court although charged with the responsibility in Michigan's Constitution of administering justice in all courts, can't do it alone. The Legislature must provide money, he noted, and the Senate and House won't vote funds unless they believe in the "case" for justice.

But the Supreme Court can bring attention to the problem and seek out aid from the people who can help, he said.

Williams, a picture of health and vitality despite a withering day on the campaign trail in the Upper Peninsula, arrived shortly after 6 p. m. Following his dinner address he toured the U. P. fairgrounds.

Sander Levin, Berkley, candidate for governor who was expected to join the dinner, was unable to attend because of planning for the State Democratic convention. A party official said Levin hopes to visit the U. P. State Fair Friday.

Candidates Introduced

Candidates introduced by Norbert Murphy, county chairman, were Nino Green of Gladstone, candidate for U. S. Congress, and Michael Nelson of Escanaba, running for state representative.

Green said he was "encouraged" by the turnout. Nelson again attacked the "irresponsibility" of Rep. Charles Varnum, Manistique Republican. Nelson said Varnum's distribution of official Michigan highway maps and also a folder saying "Welcome to the State Capitol" by Varnum at the U. P. Fair is a direct "misuse" of public funds.

Floral Display Brightens Fair

By JAN JYRKILA

The unlimited decorative possibilities displayed in a variety of colorful and fragrant floral arrangements highlight the center of the exhibition building at the Fair.

Tonight the general flower exhibits will be removed in order to utilize the space for the gladiola display.

Mrs. Helen Jensen, Gladstone, superintendent of the floriculture department, noted that despite the heat and dry weather conditions, flowers were heavily entered and the quality was excellent.

In the wild flower category, blue ribbons were awarded for outstanding artistic ability to Mrs. Stella Rodman and Henry Caron, both of Escanaba, purple liatries, 25 of one variety, to Mrs. William B. Johnson of Gross.

Other winners in the special awards division were Mrs. John Pearce of Escanaba, with lavender ball dahlias, Mrs. Arthur Giroux of Escanaba, with cactus dahlias, and Mark Olson, also of Escanaba, with large flowering dahlias.

Gladiolas and other attractive garden flowers were beautifully arranged by Mrs. Beatrice Sheehan of Gross and won her an award in the garden flower table arrangement.

In the cut flower section, top awards went to Mike Derkos of Escanaba, Lorraine Mankiewicz of Rock, Lydia Cowell of Kipling, Mrs. John Pearce of Escanaba, and Mrs. Lawrence Chouinard of Gladstone.

Lovely African violets, in various shades, brought blue ribbons to Ruth Ball of Rapid River, Mrs. Arthur Giroux of Escanaba, and Mrs. Beatrice Sheehan of Gross.

Outstanding geraniums, fuchias, begonias and coleus awards went to Agnes Johnson of Bark River, Lydia Cowey of Rapid River, Mrs. John Pearce and Mrs. Stella Rodman of Escanaba.

Flower entries, judged by Walter Wickert, Helen Jensen, Elizabeth Thompson and Gene Thorbahn, again contributed a panorama of color to the Fair.

Pig Scramble Held At Fair

About 50 boys and girls competed in the pig scramble Tuesday at the Upper Peninsula State Fair. Most of the 25 pigs caught and bagged were sold back to suppliers, although some of the children took them home, the Chamber of Commerce reported today.

The pig scramble was sponsored by the Delta County Agricultural Booster Association and the Agriculture Committee of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce. Area businessmen purchased the 25 pigs from hog raisers for the scramble.

The committee in charge of the scramble was Felix Johnson and Richard Marenger, with assistance from others. The Booster Association and the Agriculture Committee expressed its appreciation for cooperation and assistance given them in putting on the event.

Sports Fishing Better In Lake

It wasn't long ago that Great Lakes fisheries experts reported that the bulk of the fish poundage in Lake Michigan was alewife.

The estimate was as much as 80 or 90 per cent of the total poundage of fish in the lake.

Today, although the alewife still abounds in the lake, sports fish must be reducing the poundage ratio. For the first time in recent years, sports fishermen are taking excellent catches of lake trout.

Two boats skippered by Dick Weycker and Elmer White of Gladstone returned to White's dock Tuesday night with 19 lake trout and a steelhead. The fish ranged from about 2½ to 10 pounds with most in the 5 to 8 pound class.

Near Island

All were taken in 90 to 125 feet of water near St. Martin's Island, located in Green Bay about 23 miles southeast of Escanaba.

White said the success in Lake Michigan has been as good or better as that he had in Lake Superior when he had his boat there for five weeks this summer. The fish are running about the same size as those he caught in Lake Superior, he reported.

Fishing lake trout near St. Martin's Island, of course, requires special deep water gear to get lure to required depths and also a suitable boat to reach the fishing grounds.

Wisconsin Fish

The fishing party of seven left Tuesday morning about 5:30 a. m., returning about 6 p. m. Of that time, about eight hours was spent actually fishing.

"It takes about an hour and 20 minutes from here (White's dock at Kipling) to get there in good weather," White said. "In bad weather it would be longer." Tuesday the lake was rough.

Cliff Long, district fish biologist for the Department of Natural Resources in Escanaba, said the lake trout being taken probably were released off the Door Peninsula of Wisconsin.

Fish released off the mouth of the Ford River last year and off the Escanaba Municipal Dock this summer would not be that large yet, he said.

$76,985 Project:

Fayette To Get New Entrance, Parking Ground

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Martin Construction Co., of Mackinaw City is starting work on a $76,985 development project at Fayette State Park. Equipment is being moved by the contractor to the park today.

The construction firm was the lowest of three bidders on the project, it is announced by the Department of Natural Resources. Funds for the development were provided by the legislature.

The work includes construction of a new entrance roadway leading to the park administration building and the parking lot on the bluff above the old Fayette townsite.

The parking lot will be in an area which ties in with the proposed construction of a visitor center (another phase of development planned at Fayette) which will be located overlooking the town and the old charcoal iron smelters. The visitor center will be financed from state recreation bond funds.

Martin Construction Co.'s contract calls for completion of the roadway and parking lot by July 1, 1971.

When the project is completed present County Road 483 through the Park will be closed and through traffic will be diverted over relocated 483 (the cut-off road) back of the park. The relocation has been approved by the Delta County Road Commission.

James Kent, Fayette Park manager, said the removal of the parking area from the townsite to the location on the bluff will permit continued restoration in the old town. The present parking lot is limited in size and is where there are foundations of barns, cabins and other structures.

The new roadway will also provide a more direct access to the park camping grounds, which this year is attracting an increasing number of campers, Kent reports. Camping at Fayette is up about 22 per cent over last year.

General attendance at Fayette is running about the same as a year ago, but for the week ending Aug. 16 a near-record was set with 11,985 visitors logged, Kent said.

For a time the attendance was declining, due in part to the condition of County Road 483. Now the county road is much improved, dustless and with a surface better than in many years.

Well-Informed Public Needed, Milliken Claims

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. William Milliken said today that he considers a well informed citizenry "the first bulwark of any democracy."

"People need information quickly, and the information they receive must be accurate," Milliken said. "We must know what is happening around us and know it quickly and well."

The governor's comments were included in a statement prepared for delivery at a luncheon celebrating the 50th anniversary of the founding of Detroit radio station WWJ.

Milliken said keeping people informed well "requires men who have vision and a sense of public obligation — characteristics which have marked the management of this station since its inception."

In addition, Milliken commended WWJ radio for "living up to its responsibilities. "In behalf of the people of Michigan," he said, "I congratulate WWJ for a half - century of public service and wish it success throughout the years ahead."

Escanaba Daily Press
[illegible] Gen. Mgr. David L. Anderson, Editor

Press Confidence

Can a reporter be summoned into court and be compelled under threat of prison term for contempt of court to testify against news sources he previously had guaranteed would remain anonymous?

Can a reporter be forced to produce information given to him in confidence?

Those questions and others in the same family are haunting the press and the legal profession today and it's a growing concern on both sides.

U.S. Attorney Gen. John N. Mitchell recently applied his talents to the question in an address to the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association in St. Louis and issued a set of "guidelines" for the U. S. Department of Justice in using subpoena power on reporters.

Mitchell said "there is no constitutional or common law privilege for the press to refuse to produce evidence requested in a properly drawn subpoena" but conceded that it is "one of the most difficult issues I have faced as Attorney General."

Mitchell outlined the debate as such:

"The government views subpoenas to the press as an authorized and proper use of the federal grand jury power to obtain facts tending to prove or disprove allegations of criminal conduct," he said. "The press views subpoenas as an effort by the government to utilize the media as a quasi-governmental investigatory agency — whether subpoenas call for the production of publicly disclosed information, such as photos of a demonstration, or for information received in confidence. Thus, the press argues that its appearance before a grand jury inhibit its ability to freely collect and publish news, and impose both pre-publication and post-publication limitations on First Amendment rights."

Mitchell predicted the dispute might expand to state and county criminal court trials and grand juries, to federal criminal trials, to federal and state civil litigation and possibly to executive and legislative fact-finding proceedings.

"It will have a substantial impact upon the Bar," he told lawyers at St. Louis, "because lawyers represent clients whose case could be won or lost based on information held by the press."

In framing his guidelines, Mitchell recognized the problem of reports in talking to news sources, many of whom would fail to be sources if they believed the confidences extended to a newspaper friend might end up on the witness stand.

The Justice Department does not consider the press an "investigative arm of the government," the guidelines said, and therefore "all reasonable attempts should be made to obtain information from non-press sources before there is any consideration of subpoenaing the press. The guidelines also stipulate that negotiations be attempted in all cases in which a subpoena is contemplated, and that no Justice Department official request or seek a subpoena without express authorization of the attorney general.

Even in requesting the attorney general's authorization the guidelines assert that there must be sufficient reason to believe that a crime has been committed from disclosures by nonpress sources; the information sought is essential to a successful investigation; that the government should have unsuccessfully attempted to obtain information from alternative non-press sources; that requests normally be limited to vertification of published information, etc.

* * *

Exactly what will develop in the dispute may be determined by the U. S. Supreme Court. A case involving a New York Times reporter convicted of contempt in San Francisco for refusing to testify to a grand jury investigating Black Panther activities is already being appealed to a federal court.

As the situation becomes more sharply defined, however, the public must hope that the balance tilts toward the news media.

Although reporters in small communities like Escanaba do not encounter questionable criminal situations in confidence as often as special assignment or Washington reporters for metropolitan dailies or magazine writers and photographers, requirements to disclose news sources would be damaging to the total reportorial effort.

As a rule, newsmen support and practice attribution of news, that is telling the reader not only what was said, but who said it. Such practice makes the speaker accountable for his remarks. But there are times when a person will not speak for publication — thus leaving a story incomplete — unless assured of anonymity. And in those instances, it may be better to use the remarks anonymously than not to use them at all.

Attorney Gen. Mitchell said he would not object to legislation granting some type of reporter-informant privilege "similar to the lawyer - client relationship" and that may be the eventual answer.

The Constitution guarantees freedom of the press. The reporter must then be guaranteed the freedom to report.

No Time For Recovery If Defense Is Relaxed

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Every time I pick up the Washington weekly called Human Events, which is fighting a notable battle to keep us from plowing under our defenses at a time when both the Russians and the Chinese Communists are improving their atomic offensive potential, I'm moved to reflect on the irony of history.

Human Events was the joint creation of the late Frank Hanighen and Felix Morley—and, in the case of Frank, it represented a brave confession of error. In the 1930s, Frank had been a vigorous part of the anti-war movement, which put its trust in isolationist Senators and in 3,000 miles of billowing ocean.

It was a Hanighen book on the "merchants of death" that helped turn the du Ponts from munitions to nylon and had nearly every college sophomore cheering for the munitions muckrakers of the Nye Committee. But, after Yalta and the beginnings of the Cold War, Frank shifted his ground. Though he has been dead for several years now, his prescience is paying off; the magazine he started is leading a fight to keep us from repeating all the errors of the 1930s, errors which Frank, who had watched the coming of the intercontinental missile, freely admitted.

* * *

The battle to keep us from disarming, however, is a forlorn one, and before we are through it will probably by the Thirties all over again. In place of Senator Nye we have Sen. Proxmire, who can't wait to get in his daily goring of the Pentagon and the Military-Industrial Complex.

Whether he knows it or not, Proxmire is the hero of the Communist Daily World, which features the Senator's attacks on anyone who advocates spending for the ABM, or MIRV, or for new aircraft carriers. The Daily World is unimportant in itself, but unfortunately its "line" gets picked up and repeated, reaching college campus publications that are hardly aware the Communists publish a paper.

The fashion today runs Proxmire's way, just as it ran Gerald Nye's way in the Thirties. But Proxmire is a more dangerous man than Nye for the simple reason that, if we ever fall disastrously behind the Communists in our preparedness for war, we shall not get the year of grace that we had after Pearl Harbor for a belated rearmament. What was a year on the preparedness timetable for the Thirties and early Forties has now been reduced to something around ten minutes.

But who thinks of making such points when the Military-Industrial Complex is assailed? Sen. Barry Goldwater and Sen. Scoop Jackson speak up, but the people who write the books and the magazine articles do not. The only book-length case for the Military-Industrial Complex that I know is "The Lonely Warriors," by John Stanley Baumgartner. And, significantly, it was published in Los Angeles by Nash, not by any New York City publisher.

* * *

Baumgartner, a graduate of West Point and the Harvard Business School, who has been a parachutist, a contracting officer, and a management consultant, is deeply angry at the fly-specking criticism directed at the "lonely warriors" who have been responsible for keeping the "big war" at bay for 25 years.

He does not attempt to defend the waste of dollars that goes with some of the cost overruns for military procurement, though he notes that the dollar decays and the machines get more complicated all the time. He points out that the proportion of Gross National Product that goes for defense has actually gone down, from around 10 per cent in 1967 to 8 per cent in 1970.

The Military-Industrial Complex may be big, but less than one-sixth of the total business of the 25 largest defense contractors is defense-oriented. Only two of the big defense contracting companies, Lockheed and General Dynamics, would be unable in their present circumstances to get along without government orders.

Baumgartner warns us that at least 23 of the bigtime defense manufacturers "may well turn away from defense and let less-qualified firms carry the defense burden . . . as abuse and unwarranted criticism accumulate." It could be du Pont and nylon all over again.

We may need a reordering of priorities to serve our domestic troubles. However, Congress must have some perspective about our military stance.

If it seems reasonable to close our overseas bases, it can't be reasonable at the same time to curtail the C-5A program that would provide overseas airlift for our troops. And if we can't have airfield rights in North Africa and Italy, we shouldn't be so quick to get rid of our aircraft carriers.

Without some recurrence of common sense we are doomed to repeat the mistakes of the Thirties, and the next Pearl Harbor would be the end.

Research, Advice Reports Seen As Big Business Aid

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There's big money in research and advice, judging from the scores of services that publish millions of words a week for business, unions, professionals and government officials, much of it supposedly confidential.

What effect these private sources of information have on the course of the economy has never been thoroughly measured, but it must be great indeed. Some subscribers happily pay thousands of dollars a year for two pages a week of mimeographed advice.

The chief goal of both writer and reader is to get a fix on the future so that plans can be made—spending, investment, production, personnel—presumably with a lot more success than the competition. And while some operations consist of one man, one room, one offset machine, others are huge operations.

The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., for example, publishes 3 dailies, 10 weeklies and several monthlies, primarily on legal, labor and economic news, mostly from Washington.

Recently the bureau, which is a private, profit-seeking business, told subscribers that American companies are continuing to experience a rising rate of employe turnover, especially among females and the younger half of the work force.

Management personnel, it said, has a lower turnover rate than nonmanagement workers, and production employes have higher rates of job changes than office workers and sales personnel.

One reason for mobility, the bureau states, is that job security is falling in importance for many people. It still ranks high among production workers, but it isn't even a major factor for many other workers.

Meanwhile, the National Industrial Conference Board, a nonprofit education and research organization largely supported by business, is concerned that the Vietnam peace dividend is already being spent or is budgeted.

The dividend, nevertheless, will be substantial, according to a study by Dr. Michael Levy, its director of economy policy research, amounting to perhaps $30 billion to $34 billion.

About one-fifth of the dividend is expected to be snared by the "rachet effect," which Levy says has followed each of the nation's seven previous armed conflicts. It means that while defense spending declines after cessation of fighting, it never returns to its prewar level.

About one-eighth of the potential dividend is likely to be absorbed at first by U.S. commitments for pacification and reconstruction inside Vietnam, says Levy, leaving at most two-thirds of the dividend available for domestic civilian benefits.

Detroit Council OK's Excise Tax On Utility Bills

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Common Council has approved a five per cent excise residences, businesses and industries.

"This is a regressive tax and is being passed solely out of necessity," said Councilman Carl Levin.

"We have not been treated equitably by the state and I see a fight coming soon with the Legislature," Levin said.

Levin and at least two other councilmen said they would have preferred to have increased the income tax.

The State Legislature recently authorized the City of Detroit to apply the five per cent tax on utilities for a temporary period. The council voted to allow the tax to go from Oct. 1 to June 30, 1972 in efforts to raise $17.5 million annually.

Actually, the squeeze is usually a simple play requiring just three elements to make it successful. These are: 1. Declarer must have all the remaining tricks but one. 2. He must have entries at the right time to both dummy's hand and his own. 3. One defender must two suits to guard.

For example, in this hand element No. 1 is met after West cashes two spades. Declarer now has one club loser and his other cards are all winners.

Elements No. 2 exists because there is ready communication between the North-South hands.

Element No. 3 is met because East must guard both the queen of clubs and his heart length.

Let's see how the squeeze operates. Assume West shifts to a club at trick three, won with the king. Declarer draws two rounds of trumps, then cashes the ace of clubs, a very important part of the operation.

He next plays three more rounds of trumps, discarding a club from dummy. This leaves dummy with the A-K-Q-7 of hearts, while South's last four cards are the 9-3 of hearts and J-9 of clubs.

But let's see what's happening to East as his hand is reduced to four cards. On the last trump lead (called the squeeze card) East must choose a discard from the J-6-5-4 of hearts and queen of clubs.

He is dead. A heart discard would make all of dummy's hearts good; a club discard makes South's jack a trick. There is nothing East can do but succumb.

The squeeze would fail if you did not first cash the ace of clubs. In such case, dummy's ace would block the suit and prevent you from cashing the jack. Element No. 2 would be lacking — communication with the South hand.

Legal Abortion No Safer Than Illegal One

Dear Ann Landers: Since you favor sharp amendment of all abortion laws which are "archaic, inhuman and discriminatory against the poor," I'd like to offer a brief rebuttal, based on testimony heard in Middlesex Superior Court in Cambridge, Mass.

Dr. William A. Lynch of Boston had this to say, "Legal abortions would be no safer than illegal abortions. Back-street abortionists who work in the shadows use the same antiseptics available to physicians." He also contended that "human life begins at the moment of conception."

Since you claim to be fair I trust you will publish this. — Other Side

If you will forgive me, I'll take the long way 'round the barn to reply. When Abraham Lincoln was asked by a prosecuting attorney, "How many legs does a sheep have?" He replied, "Four." The attorney then asked, "If you called a sheep's tail a leg, how many legs would he have?" Lincoln replied, "Four. Merely because you call a sheep's tail a leg does not make it one."

And this is my reply to Dr. William Lynch's statement.

Statements are made all day long, but this does not mean they are valid or correct. Generations of theologians will be thrilled to know that at last the question, "When does life begin?" has been settled by Dr. Lynch. They have been searching for an answer to this question for centuries.

As for his statement that back-street abortionists use the same antiseptics available to physicians, Dr. Lynch should be informed that for the past 75 years asepsis and not antiseptics has been the method of sterile technique. Moreover, every surgeon with whom I checked said it is impossible to maintain a completely safe asepsis outside an operating room. In fact, patients have been known to pick up infections in the operating rooms of some highly respected hospitals.

I work in an office that employs 36 women and 17 men (including the executives). You wouldn't believe the way some of the women come to work — no makeup, hair in bobby pins and clips like they were ready for bed; wrinkled, faded, ill-fitting blouses and shirts; ungirdled; joggling; shaking; no hose; sandals; dirty toenails — it's an insult to the people they work with.

At least Country Hick, in her sequined cocktail dress, [illegible] hairdo, and blue eyeshadow is making an effort to look like something. — A City Girl

Press Confidence

Can a reporter be summoned into court and be compelled under threat of prison term for contempt of court to testify against news sources he previously had guaranteed would remain anonymous?

Can a reporter be forced to produce information given to him in confidence?

Those questions and others in the same family are haunting the press and the legal profession today and it's a growing concern on both sides.

U.S. Attorney Gen. John N. Mitchell recently applied his talents to the question in an address to the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association in St. Louis and issued a set of "guidelines" for the U. S. Department of Justice in using subpoena power on reporters.

Mitchell said "there is no constitutional or common law privilege for the press to refuse to produce evidence requested in a properly drawn subpoena" but conceeded that it is "one of the most difficult issues I have faced as Attorney General."

Mitchell outlined the debate as such:

"The government views subpoenas to the press as an authorized and proper use of the federal grand jury power to obtain facts tending to prove or disprove allegations of criminal conduct," he said. "The press views subpoenas as an effort by the government to utilize the media as a quasi-governmental investigatory agency — whether subpoenas call for the production of publically disclosed information, such as photos of a demonstration, or for information received in confidence. Thus, the press argues that its appearances before a grand jury inhibit its ability to freely collect and publish news, and impose both pre-publication and post-publication limitations on First Amendment rights."

Mitchell predicted the dispute might expand to state and county criminal court trials and grand juries, to federal criminal trials, to federal and state civil litigation and possibly to executive and legislative fact-finding proceedings.

"It will have a substantial impact upon the Bar," he told lawyers at St. Louis, "because lawyers represent clients whose case could be won or lost based on information held by the press."

* * *

In issuing his guidelines, Mitchell recognized the problem of reports in talking to news sources, many of whom would fail to be sources if they believed the confidences extended to a newspaper friend might end up on the witness stand.

The Justice Department does not consider the press an "investigative arm of the government," the guidelines said, and therefore "all reasonable attempts should be made to obtain information from non-press sources before there is any consideration of subpoenaing the press. The guidelines also stipulate that negotiations be attempted in all cases in which a subpeona is contemplated, and that no Justice Department oficial request or seek a subpeona without express authorization of the attorney general.

Even in requesting the attorney general's authorization the guidelines assert that there must be sufficient reason to believe that a crime has been committed from disclosures by non-press sources; the information sought is essential to a successful investigation; that the government should have unsuccessfully attempted to obtain information from alternative non-press sources; that resuests normally be limited to vertification of published information, etc.

* * *

Exactly what will develop in the dispute may be determined by the U. S. Supreme Court. A case involving a New York Times reporter convicted of contempt in San Francisco for refusing to testify to a grand jury investigating Black Panther activities is already being appealed to a federal court.

As the situation becomes more sharply defined, however, the public must hope that the balance tilts toward the news media.

Although reporters in small communities like Escanaba do not encounter questionable criminal situations in confidence as often as special assignment or Washington reporters for metropolitan dailies or magazine writers and photographers, requirements to disclose news sources would be damaging to the total reportorial effort.

As a rule, newsmen support and practice attribution of news, that is telling the reader not only what was said, but who said it. Such practice makes the speaker accountable for his remarks. But there are times when a person will not speak for publication — thus leaving a story incomplete — unless assured of anonymity. And in those instances, it may be better to use the remarks anonymously than not to use them at all.

Attorney Gen. Mitchell said he would not object to legislation granting some type of reportant-informant privilege "similar to the lawyer - client relationship" and that may be the eventual answer.

The Constitution guarantees freedom of the press. The reporter must then be guaranteed the freedom to report.

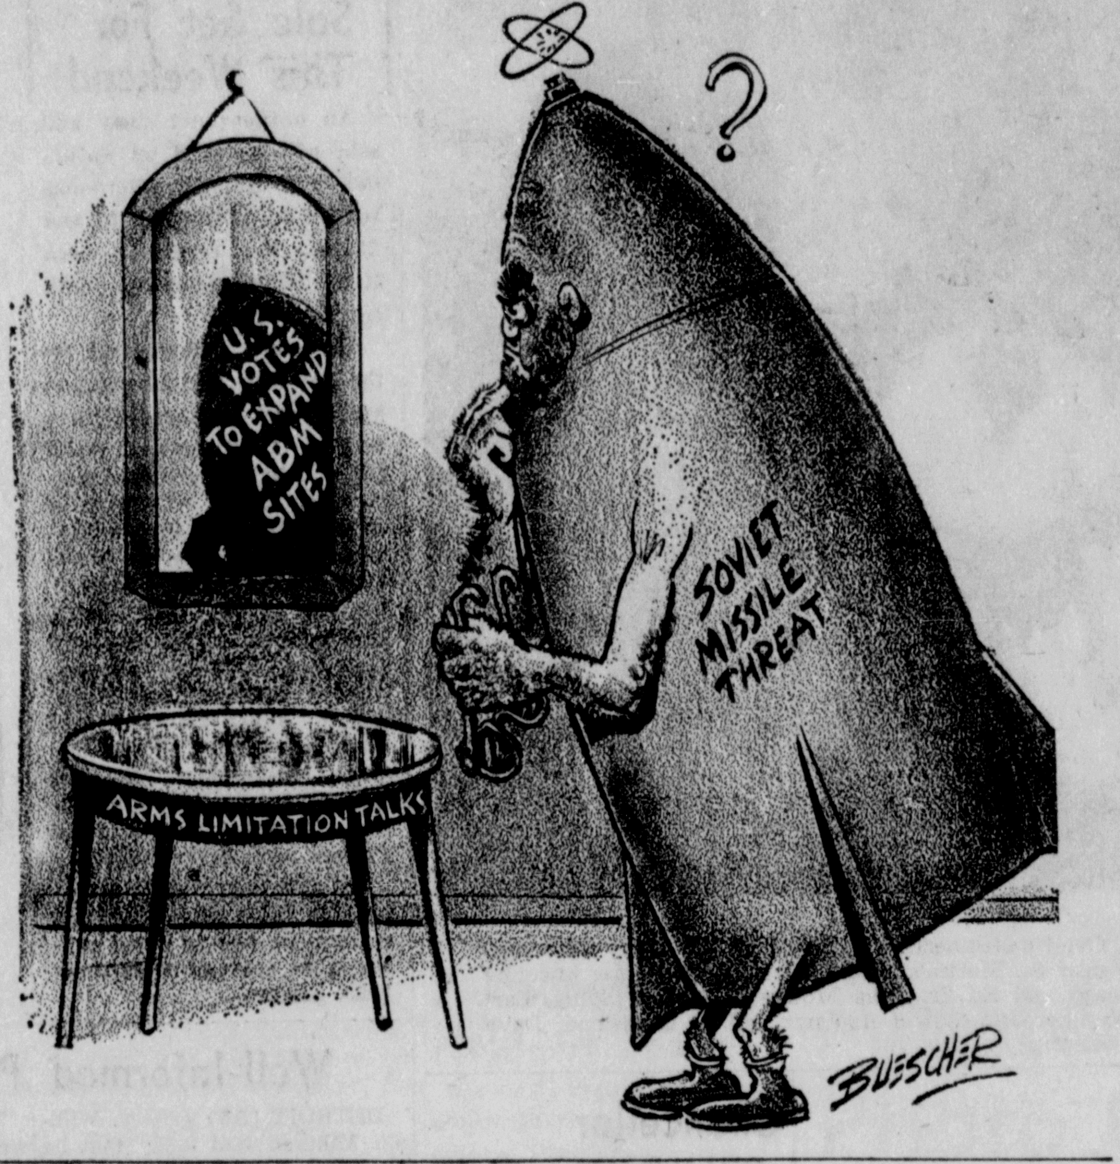
REFLECTION



No Time For Recovery If Defense Is Relaxed

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Every time I pick up the Washington weekly called Human Events, which is fighting a notable battle to keep us from plowing under our defenses at a time when both the Russian and the Chinese Comunists are improving their atomic offensive potential, I m moved to reflect on the irony of history.

Human Events was the joint creation of the late Frank Hanighen and Felix Morley—and, in the case of Frank, it represented a brave confession of error. In the 1930s, Frank had been a vigorous part of the anti-war movement, which put its trust in isolationist Senators and in 3,000 miles of billowing ocean.

It was a Hanighen book on the "merchants of death" that helpel turn the du Ponts from munitions to nylon and had nearly every college sophomore cheering for the munitions muckrakers of the Nye Commitee. But, after Yalta and the beginnings of the Cold War, Frank shifted his ground. Though he has been dead for sevral years now, his prescience is paying off; the magazine he started is leading a fight to keep us from repeating all the errors of the 1930s, errors which Frank, who had watched the coming of the intercontinental missile, freely admitted.

* * *

The battle to keep us from disarming, however, is a forlorn one, and before we are through it will probably by the Thirties all over again. In place of Senator Nye we have Sen. Proxmire, who can't wait to get in his daily goring of the Pentagon and the Military-Industrial Complex.

Whether he knows it or not, Proxmire is the hero of the Communist Daily World, which features the Senator's attacks on anyone who advocates spending for the ABM, or MIRV, or for new aircraft carriers. The Daily World is unimportant in itself, but unfortunately its "line" gets picked up and repeated, reaching college campus publications that are hardly aware the Communists publish a paper.

The fashion today runs Proxmire's way, just as it ran Gerald Nye's way in the Thirties. But Proxmire is a more dangerous man than Nye for the simple reason that, if we ever fall disastrously behind the Communists in our preparedness for war, we shall not get the year of grace that we had after Pearl Harbor for a belated rearmament. What was a year on the preparedness timetable for the Thirties and early Forties has now been reduced to something around ten minutes.

But who thinks of making such points when the Military-Industrial Complex is assailed? Sen. Barry Goldwater and Sen. Scoop Jackson speak up, but the people who write the books and the magazine articles do not. The sole book-length case for the Military-Industrial Complex that I know is "The Lonely Warriors," by John Stanley Baumgartner. And, significantly, it was published in Los Angeles by Nash, not by any New York City publisher.

* * *

Baumgartner, a graduate of West Point and the Harvard Business School, who has been a parachutist, a contracting officer, and a management consultant, is deeply angry at the fly-specking criticism directed at the "lonely warriors" who have been responsible for keeping the "big war" at bay for 25 years.

He does not attempt to defend the waste of dollars that goes with some of the cost overruns for military procurement, though he notes that the dollar decays and the machines get more complicated all the time. He points out that the proportion of Gross National Product that goes for defense has actually gone down, from around 10 per cent in 1967 to 8 per cent in 1970.

The Military-Industrial Complex may be big, but less than one-sixth of the total business of the 25 largest defense contractors is defense-oriented. Only two of the big defense contracting companies, Lockheed and General Dynamics, would be unable in their present circumstances to get along without government orders.

Baumgartner warns us that at least 23 of the bigtime defense manufacturers "may well turn away from defense and let less-qualified firms carry the defense burden . . . as abuse and unwarranted criticism accumulate." It could be du Pont and nylon all over again.

We may need a reordering of priorities to serve our domestic troubles. However, Congress must have some perspective about our military stance.

If it seems reasonable to close our overseas bases, it can't be reasonable at the same time to curtail the C-5A program that would provide overseas airlift for our troops. And if we can't have airfield rights in North Africa and Italy, we shouldn't be so quick to get rid of our aircraft carriers.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the office bulldozer with the Big Mouth made my blood boil. She was highly critical of the "country hick" who was so hipped on a frequent change of outfits that she wore her cocktail clothes to work rather than repeat.

I say bully for Country Hick and fie on the dull, dreary, lazy, unimaginative dames who are too bored or indifferent (or just plain dumb) to try to look like something when they arrive at their jobs.

I work in an office that employs 36 women and 17 men (including the executives). You wouldn't believe the way some of the women come to work — no makeup, hair in bobby pins and clips like they were ready for bed; wrinkled, faded, ill-fitting blouses and shirts; ungirdled; joggling; shaking; no hose; sandals; dirty toenails — it's an insult to the people they work with.

At least Country Hick, in her sequined cocktail dress, formal hairdo, and blue eye-shadow is making an effort to look like something. — A City Girl

Dear Girl: Thanks for the kind words in behalf of the gal who tries. There's something in what you say, and what's more I like the way you say it!

Get Out Of Supersonic Plane Program, Administration Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate [illegible] panel has [illegible] the Nixon administration get out of the program to develop a supersonic transport plane.

"The plane [illegible] could [illegible] prove of [illegible] public benefit, said a report by the Joint subcommittee on economy in government.

$290 Million Subsidy

The administration has proposed $290 million in SST development subsidies this year, which the group urged be stricken. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman, is sponsoring an amendment to do so.

Dissenting from the majority recommendation was Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, who declared that if the panel "had been advising Queen Isabella, we would all still be in Europe waiting to prove the world round before daring the Atlantic."

The subcommittee report now goes to the full Joint Economic Committee.

Says Facts Blurred

Brown said the report "blurred facts with suspicions and used tortured and frequently contradictory logic to come to conclusions about future U.S. transportation policy which will not bear close examination."

Proxmire released the report at a news conference today and said in prepared remarks he is hopeful the Senate will approve soon his amendment to the Department of Transportation's budget [illegible]

[illegible] The Boeing Co., which [illegible] the government's SST contract, would have to sell 300 of the [illegible] planes before it would return the federal loan, the report said, [illegible] when the government earns 6 per cent on its investment.

The report was endorsed by [illegible] Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., [illegible] Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., [illegible] D-Pa. [illegible] D-Wis. [illegible] Symington, D-Mo., neither [illegible] nor dissented from the report.

In addition to what it considers specious financial arrangements between the Boeing Co. and the government, the subcommittee:

—Said employment potential of the SST program is "modest" with the prototype program alone worth 20,000 jobs. The panel said the nation's unemployment problems should be attacked on a larger scale with "productive" jobs providing goods and services which society regards as useful and desirable. The SST does not qualify on these grounds.

Adverse Balance Cited

—Contended that rather than producing a favorable balance of payments by as much as $16 billion by 1990—as SST proponents have said—the plane's production in the United States could have an adverse balance of payments effect. The report said the $16 billion figure is based on assumed sales of 500 SST's and on the further assumption that without an SST, U.S. airlines will import some 300 British-French SSTs—the Concorde.

Hard To Accept

The report called the assumption "hard to accept."

—Said the Concorde, as a [illegible], is still unproven in trans-Atlantic flights and, even if development succeeds, "[illegible] is not likely to be a commercially attractive proposition for the airlines."

—Said sonic boom, airport noise and contamination of the atmosphere make development at this time premature. "When more progress has been made in overcoming these serious environmental effects, the SST may look like a much more attractive commercial proposition" under private—not government-financing.

Get Out Of Supersonic Plane Program, Administration Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House - Senate efficiency panel has recommended that the government get out of the program to develop a supersonic transport plane.

The plane eventually could cost federal taxpayers $3 billion, earn little or no return and prove of negligible public benefit, said a report by the joint subcommittee on economy in government.

$290 Million Subsidy

The administration has proposed $290 million in SST development subsidies this year, which the group urged be stricken. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman, is sponsoring an amendment to do so.

Dissenting from the majority recommendation was Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, who declared that if the panel "had been advising Queen Isabella, we would all still be in Barcelona waiting to prove the world round before daring the Atlantic."

The subcommittee report now goes to the full Joint Economic Committee.

Says Facts Blurred

Brown said the report "blurred facts with suspicions and used tortured and frequently contradictory logic to come to conclusions about future U.S. transportation policy which will not bear close examination."

Proxmire released the report at a news conference today and said in prepared remarks he is hopeful the Senate will approve soon his amendment to the Department of Transportation's budget bill.

"If Congress succeeds in reordering priorities this year," he said, "there is no doubt in my mind that the SST will wind up right at the bottom of the list, where it belongs."

No Assurance

Despite the $290 million sought this year, the report said "no assurance can be given that there is any upper limit on the eventual total cost to the Government" and added prospects are "remote" the government will eventually recover its investment.

The Boeing Co., which won the government's SST contract, would have to sell 300 of the faster-than-sound planes before it would return the federal loan, the report said. Subsequent royalties cease under the contract when the government earns 6 per cent on its investment.

6 Per Cent Rate Hit

The report said 6 per cent is a poor rate of return in today's market and added "our private witnesses did not feel prospects for selling 300 SSTs were very bright."

The report was endorsed by Sens. Proxmire, Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Reps. Wright Patman, D-Tex., Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., William S. Moorehead, D-Pa., and Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y. Brown alone dissented and Sens. John Sparkman, D-Ala., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., neither endorsed nor dissented from the report.

In addition to what it considers specious financial arrangements between the Boeing Co. and the government, the subcommittee:

—Said employment potential of the SST program is "modest" with the prototype program alone worth 20,000 jobs. The panel said the nation's unemployment problems should be atatcked on a larger scale with "productive jobs providing goods and services which society regards as useful and desireable. The SST does not qualify on these grounds."

Adverse Balance Cited

—Concluded that rather than promoting a favorable balance of payments by as much as $16 billion by 1990—as SST proponents have said—the plane's production in the United States could have an adverse balance of payments effect. The report said the $16 billion figure is based on assumed sales of 500 SSTs and on the further assumption that without an SST, U.S. airlines will import some 300 British-French SSTs—the Concorde.

Hard To Accept

The report called the assumptions "hard to accept."

—Said the Concorde, as a competitive threat, is still unproven in trans-Atlantic flights and even if development succeeds, "purchase is not likely to be a commercially attractive proposition for the airlines."

—Said sonic boom, airport noise and contamination of the atmosphere make development at this time premature. "When more progress has been made in overcoming these serious environmental effects, the SST may look like a much more attractive commercial proposition" under private—not government-financing.

Detroit Claims Drug Abuse Now City 'Epidemic'

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit health department official, noting that drug deaths in Detroit rose almost 50 per cent in the first six months of 1970, has said that "drug abuse has become an epidemic problem like measles or polio were in the past."

Dr. Willard Lenz, chief of the department's division of communicable disease, also reported there has been an "abrupt shift" from morphine to heroin as the main cause of drug deaths.

He said that in the first half of 1970, there were 34 deaths reported by doctors as caused by drugs, compared with 24 such deaths during the preceding six-month period.

Lenz also said that hepatitis deaths, often linked to dirty hypodermic needles, hit an all-time high of 120 in Detroit in July.

[illegible] Change
[illegible] Among Colored

[illegible] (AP) — [illegible] has to [illegible] more blacks, the Navy officer corps remains a virtual [illegible] organization with Negroes [illegible] less than one per cent of the Navy's 78,000 officers.

There are only [illegible] above the rank of ensign wearing Navy blue and gold, about double the number three years ago.

"Accelerated tokenism," says Lt. Commander Robert L. Toney, a black officer given the job of selling the Navy to the Negroes and other minority group members.

Competition Blamed

Although Toney and another Negro recruiting officer, Lt. Commander [illegible] Patridge, are critical of what they say has been the Navy's less than [illegible] [illegible] they lay the biggest blame on the Navy's image and competition with private industry.

"The Navy has an image problem that it hasn't been able to overcome," says Toney, explaining that blacks still think of the Navy as a place for cooks and mess stewards.

That was the Navy's image before World War II when the only opportunity for blacks was to be cooks, mess stewards or stevedores. Since then, the Navy integrated its ranks and considered Negroes for equal promotion. The Army, Air Force and Marines did the same.

Lowest Percentage

Through the years, however, the Navy has traditionally trailed its sister services with the lowest percentage of Negroes in its ranks.

Defense Department figures released last [illegible] show [illegible] (3.2 per cent) blacks in the Army's officer corps, 2,267 (1.7 per cent) in the Air Force and [illegible] (1.2 per cent) in the Marines. In the Navy it's less than half of one per cent.

Three years ago, the Navy, aware of its traditional low standing, created the office of Minority Officer Recruiting Effort with the acronym of MORE. Toney was put in charge. The Navy also established an office of Minority Affairs under Patridge's direction. Both are trying to reach into the nation's ghettos to sell the Navy as a career.

2 Negro Officers

The lack of black faces in the Navy is one of the biggest drawbacks to recruiting. Only two black Navy officers are assigned to the Pentagon. Patridge says prospective Negro recruits ask why there aren't more black faces around.

Another factor hampering recruiting of black officer candidates is the [illegible].

"It's the [illegible] for everyone," says Toney, "[illegible] he's competing with [illegible] per cent middle class [illegible]. And let's face it—their [illegible] faster than ours."

Patridge, Toney and other black recruiters are scouring college campuses for black officer candidates. But big corporations, which only a few years ago were criticized for discriminating against blacks, have the same idea.

Fatter Pay Checks

Big companies are offering fatter pay checks, about twice what the Navy offers. At the same time, says Toney, "blacks are asking themselves 'why should I volunteer for the military when the real problem is here at home?' "

For years, the Army and Air Force drew a large percentage of its black officers from college reserve officer training corps (ROTC programs) on several predominantly black campuses. It wasn't until 1968 the first Navy ROTC program was established on a predominantly Negro college—Prairie View in Texas. More are planned at other schools.

Congressmen "Warned"

The Navy also is knocking at congressmen's doors on Capitol Hill, trying to impress on them the need to increase the number of Negro Navy Academy appointments to Annapolis where 33 blacks are now enrolled.

Although Patridge and Toney say the Navy has finally shown awareness of the need and problems in recruiting Negroes and other minority group members, they complain of what they describe as foot-dragging and the lack of response to their needs by some top ranking officers.

"I haven't been refused cooperation, but the cooperation has been slow in coming," says Patridge.

GENOA, Italy (AP) — About 30 merchant ships sailing in from the Black Sea, Turkey and the Middle East have been stopped outside this harbor city and barred from docking until all persons were checked for cholera, a communique issued by harbor authorities reported Tuesday.

All passengers embarking here for the Middle East and the Soviet Union are being inoculated against cholera before departing, the communique added.

Watering Artificial Grass Something Else

By JACQUELINE KORONA

EAST LANSING (AP) — Watering crops and grass—to keep green, growing blades alive and looking good on a hot, hot summer day—makes sense.

But what about artificial grass?

Watering that might sound as sensible as feeding a plastic cow.

Not so to Dr. Roy A. Mecklenberg, a horticulturist at Michigan State University. He says watering artificial grass may become necessary to help cool off the synthetic surface.

Ken Earley, equipment manager at the MSU Spartan Stadium, where artificial Tartan turf was put in before the 1969 football season, agrees. "I'm going to suggest that we do that this year," he says.

The final decision on watering the turf rests with Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty, Earley says, "but it would be a good idea."

Mecklenberg explains the idea by saying temperatures as high as 178 degrees have been recorded on the surface of the artificial football turf in the stadium. Temperatures taken five feet above the surface usually are 10 degrees hotter than over natural grass, he adds.

Mecklenberg says that when the sun shines directly on the playing surface during warm weather, it soaks up the heat much like sand does. Natural grass, he says, does not get as hot because of the great amount of water that evaporates from the grass blades.

"An acre of grass will lose about 2,400 gallons of water on a single summer day," the horticulturist says. "Evaporation acts as an air conditioner to cool the air above it."

This "air conditioning effect" might well be used on the artificial turf too, says Mecklenberg.

"Players would not slip on the wet turf because of the way it is constructed," he says. "The water might also help to cut down on the carpet burns [illegible] athletes receive when they fall on the surface."

Earley goes along with Mecklenberg's comments, saying the players don't like to play when the grass is hot, especially since a ball rolling over the grass gets warm too.

The Tartan Turf, installed at a cost of [illegible], is a half-inch thick nylon grasslike topping on a specially mixed synthetic resin base. The two make what MSU considers a "durable nonslip all-weather surface."

The covering adheres to a spongy impact cushion, which, in turn, rests on five inches of asphalt.

Earley says watering the turf after a hot day's practice would cool off the artificial grass and leave time for the water to drain off the field almost completely by the time for the next day's practice.

THUMBS UP

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP)—The accident prevention sub-committee of the Bournemouth Council has turned thumbs-up on a French idea of getting children across the road safely. The idea is that drivers would stop if a child gave the thumbs-up signal at the roadside.

[illegible] Romney [illegible]
[illegible]
By High Costs

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney [illegible] government housing programs are being hurt by rising costs.

"My basic concern is that the cost of living is rising so fast that we're pricing people out of the housing market faster than federal programs can [illegible] it," he said at a news conference.

Romney added his department is trying to slow down the rising costs of housing. One way, he said, is by encouraging the use of modern knowledge and techniques of building.

He said he would rather see housing needs met by private means, but added, "the government can't ignore these needs."

Romney came to Alabama for tours of Huntsville and Birmingham and for a speech at Operation New Birmingham's annual meeting. The group is involved in renovation of the downtown business area.

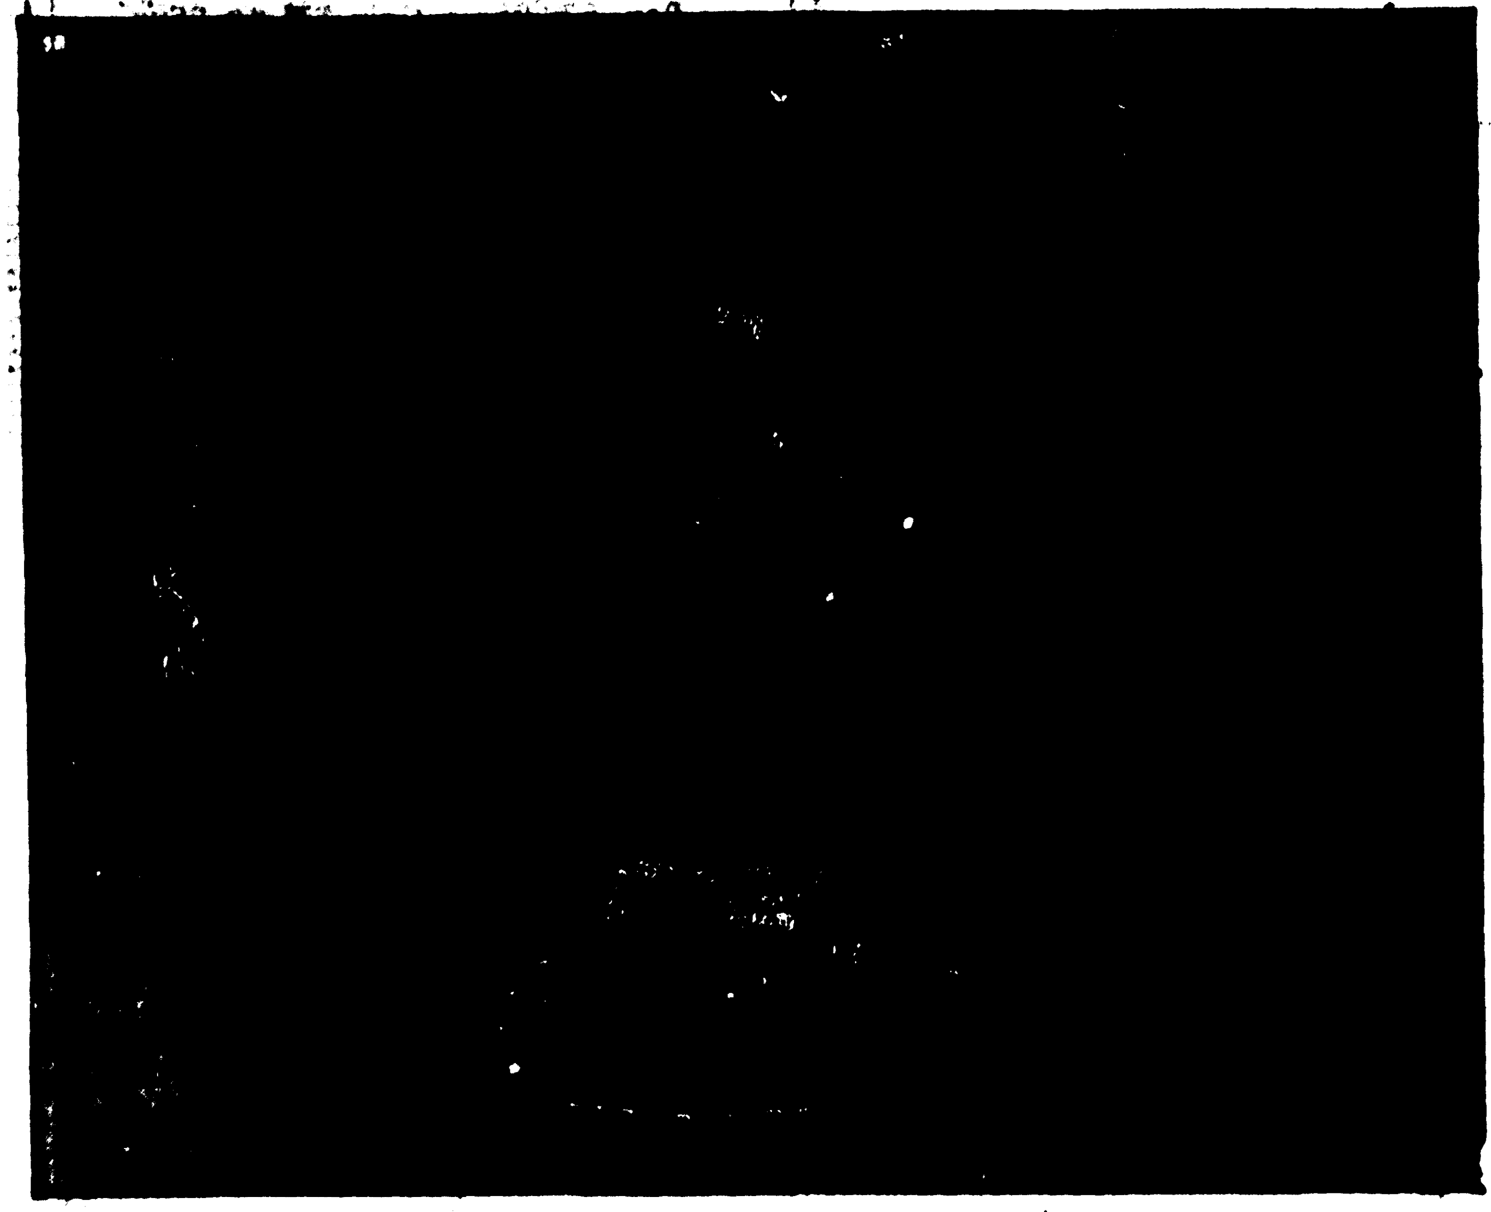
In his talk, Romney said that "in my lifetime the predominant attitude has shifted from asking what the people can do about particular problems, to what is the government going to do."

But, he said, he believes "we're in the early stages of changing this by decentralization of government, revenue sharing with states and local governments, and an effort to stimulate the whole field of voluntary action."

"Our future depends on what people and communities can do for each other," the cabinet member said. He said a major assignment given him by President Nixon was to encourage this type of voluntary cooperation.

POLICY CHANGE

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky has changed its policy on reservations for state parks, dissolving the previous rule that they can be made only after Jan. 1 for the next 12 months. Henceforth they can be made a year in advance anytime.



Do you take your furniture polish with, or without?

You say you don't drink furniture polish? Well then, why do you include it when figuring your weekly "grocery" bill? Come on, admit it. We all do it. Checking out at the supermarket, we think: "Wow! I used to get 4 bags of groceries for half that!" Yes, you did. But, years ago, those [illegible] groceries. Today, you're buying more [illegible] items with your food. Things [illegible] charcoal; even fertilizer and [illegible] now sold in supermarkets. [illegible] the lowest food prices up; but, [illegible] other things. From 1958 to 1968, [illegible] while clothing was up 20%, housing 27%, medical 45%. Since 1950, farm output per man has increased 6% annually compared to 2.5% for all other industries. Americans spend only about 16.5% of income on food; the lowest in history and about half of any other country in the world! It's all due to the amazing efficiency of the American Farmer, implementing the modern farming methods encouraged and practiced by members of the Michigan Milk Producers Association.

So, next time you check your food bill, please just count the food items. Then count your blessings.

Navy Failing To Change Image Among Colored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite efforts begun three years ago to recruit more blacks, the Navy officer corps remains a virtual lily-white organization with Negroes accounting for less than one per cent of the Navy's 80,000 officers.

There are only 539 blacks above the rank of ensign wearing Navy blue and gold, about double the number three years ago.

"Accelerated tokenism," says Lt. Commander Robert L. Toney, a black officer given the job of selling the Navy to the Negros and other minority group members.

Competition Blamed

Although Toney and another Negro recruiting officer, Lt. Commander Melvin Patridge, are critical of what they say has been the Navy's less than full-hearted effort, they lay the biggest blame on the Navy's image and competition with private industry.

"The Navy has an image problem that it hasn't been able to overcome," says Toney, explaining that blacks still think of the Navy as a place for cooks and mess stewards.

That was the Navy's image before World War II when the only opportunity for blacks was to be cooks, mess stewards or stevedores. Since then, the Navy integrated its ranks and considered Negroes for equal promotion. The Army, Air Force and Marines did the same.

Lowest Percentage

Through the years, however, the Navy has traditionally trailed its sister services with the lowest percentage of Negroes in its ranks.

Defense Department figures released last week show 5,379 (3.2 per cent) blacks in the Army's officer corps, 2,267 (1.7 per cent) in the Air Force and 308 (1.2 per cent) in the Marines. In the Navy it's less than half of one per cent.

Three years ago, the Navy, aware of its traditional low standing, created the office of Minority Officer Recruiting Effort with the acronym of MORE. Toney was put in charge. The Navy also established an office of Minority Affairs under Patridge's direction. Both are trying to reach into the nation's ghettos to sell the Navy as a career.

2 Negro Officers

The lack of black faces in the Navy is one of the biggest drawbacks to recruiting. Only two black Navy officers are assigned to the Pentagon. Patridge says prospective Negro recruits ask why there aren't more black faces around.

Another factor hampering recruiting of black officer candidates is the battery of exams.

"It's the same exam for everyone," says Toney, "But he's competing with 99.9 per cent middle class whites. And let's face it—their pace is just faster than ours."

Patridge, Toney and other black recruiters are scouring college campuses for black officer candidates. But big corporations, which only a few years ago were criticized for discriminating against blacks, have the same idea.

Fatter Pay Checks

Big companies are offering fatter pay checks, about twice what the Navy offers. At the same time, says Toney, "blacks are asking themselves 'why should I volunteer for the military when the real problem is here at home?' "

For years, the Army and Air Force drew a large percentage of its black officers from college reserve officer training corps (ROTC programs) on several predominantly black campuses. It wasn't until 1968 the first Navy ROTC program was established on a predominantly Negro college—Prairie View in Texas. More are planned at other schools.

Congressmen "Warned"

The Navy also is knocking at congressmen's doors on Capitol Hill, trying to impress on them the need to increase the number of Negro Navy Academy appointments to Annapolis where 52 blacks are now enrolled.

Although Patridge and Toney say the Navy has finally shown awareness of the need and problems in recruiting Negroes and other minority group members, they complain of what they describe as foot-dragging and the lack of response to their needs by some top ranking officers.

"I haven't been refused cooperation, but the cooperation has been slow in coming," says Patridge.

Abandoned Autos Being Picked Up By General Motors

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — Nearly 2,600 abandoned cars in a 20 mile area surrounding Traverse City were reported to General Motors dealers here during a two-month period concluded Aug. 15, GM announced.

The company said local law enforcement agencies are certifying the cars as legally abandoned so they can be towed in and processed into scrap to be used in steel mills and foundries.

GM spokesmen said their teams will stay in the area until all the vehicles legally eligible are picked up.

They said the purpose of the test project was to find ways to make it economically attractive for the scrap processing industry to pick up the deserted vehicles.

Merchant Vessels Get Cholera Check

GENOA, Italy (AP) — About 80 merchant ships sailing in from the Black Sea, Turkey and the Middle East have been stopped outside this harbor city and barred from docking until all persons were checked for cholera, a communique issued by harbor authorities reported Tuesday.

It said that up to now no trace of the disease has been found and all vessels were permitted to dock, after animal furs and rags were disinfected. The checks were made over a period of eight days.

All passengers embarking here for the Middle East and the Soviet Union are being inoculated against cholera before departing, the communique added.

Watering Artificial Grass Something Else

By JACQUELINE KORONA

EAST LANSING (AP) — Watering crops and grass—to keep green, growing blades alive and looking good on a hot, hot summer day—makes sense.

But what about artificial grass?

Watering that might sound as sensible as feeding a plastic cow.

Not so to Dr.Roy A. Mecklenberg, a horticulturist at Michigan State University. He says watering artificial grass may become necessary to help cool off the synthetic surface.

Ken Earley, equipment manager at the MSU Spartan Stadium, where artificial Tartan turf was put in befort the 1969 football season, agrees. "I'm going to suggest that we do that this year," he says.

The final decision on watering the turf rests with Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty, Earley says, "but it would be a good idea."

Mecklenberg explains the idea by saying temperatures as high as 178 degrees have been recorded on the surface of the artificial football turf in the stadium. Temperatures taken five feet above the surface usually are 10 degrees hotter than over natural grass, he adds.

Mecklenberg says that when the sun shines directly on the playing surface during warm weather, it soaks up the heat much like sand does. Natural grass, he says, does not get as hot because of the great amount of water that evaporates from the grass blades.

"An acre of grass will lose about 2,400 gallons of water on a single summer day," the horticulturist says. "Evaporation acts as an air conditioner to cool the air above it."

This "air conditioning effect" might well be used on the artificial tuft too, says Macklenberg.

"Players would not slip on the wet turf because of the way it is constructed," he says. "The water might also help to cut down on the carpet burn-like abrasions athletes receive when they fall on the surface."

Earley goes along with Mecklenberg's comments, saying the players don't like to play when the grass is not, especially since a ball rolling over the grass gets warm too.

The Tartan Tuff, installed at a cost of some $250,000, is a half-inch thick nylon grass-like topping on a specially mixed synthetic resin base. The two make what MSU considers a "durable nonslip all-weather surface."

The covering adheres to a spongy impact cushion, which, in turn, rests on five inches of asphalt.

Earley says watering the turf after a hot day's practice would cool off the artificial grass and leave time for the water to drain off the field almost completely by the time for the next day's practice.

Romney Says Housing Hurt By High Costs

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney claims government housing programs are being hurt by rising costs.

"My basic concern is that the cost of living is rising so fast that we're pricing people out of the housing market faster than federal programs can get them into it," he said at a news conference.

Romney added his department is trying to slow down the rising costs of housing. One way, he said, is by encouraging the use of modern knowledge and techniques of building.

He said he would rather see housing needs met by private means, but added, "the government can't ignore these needs."

Romney came to Alabama for tours of Huntsville and Birmingham and for a speech at Operation New Birmingham's annual meeting. The group is involved in renovation of the downtown business area.

In his talk, Romney said that "in my lifetime the predominant attitude has shifted from asking what the people can do about particular problems to what is the government going to do."

But, he said, he believes "we're in the early stages of changing this by decentralization of government, revenue sharing with states and local governments, and an effort to stimulate the whole field of voluntary action."

"Our future depends on what people and communities can do for each other," the cabinet member said. He said a major assignment given him by President Nixon was to encourage this type of voluntary cooperation.

POLICY CHANGE

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky has changed its policy on reservations for state parks, shelving the previous rule that they can be made only after Jan. 1 for the next 12 months. Henceforth they can be made a year in advance anytime.

Do you take your furniture polish with, or without?

You say you don't drink furniture polish? Well then, why do you include it when figuring your weekly "grocery" bills? Come on, admit it. We all do it. Checking out at the supermarket, we think: "Wow! I used to get 4 bags of groceries for half that!" Yes, you did. But, years ago, those bags held groceries. Today, you're buying more and more non-food items with your food. Things like pots and pans, charcoal; even fertilizer and encyclopedias are now sold in supermarkets.

Sure, inflation has forced food prices up; but, not as much as other things. From 1958 to 1968, food went up 16% while clothing was up 20%, housing 27%, medical 45%. Since 1950, farm output per man has increased 6% annually compared to 2.5% for all other industries. Americans spend only about 16.5% of income on food; the lowest in history and about half of any other country in the world! It's all due to the amazing efficiency of the American Farmer, implementing the modern farming methods encouraged and practiced by members of the Michigan Milk Producers Association.

So, next time you check your food bill, please just count the food items. Then count your blessings.

[illegible] Small Car Competition Feared

[illegible] Pinto, to be unveiled [illegible], will outsell Volkswagen.

[illegible] car sales rose from [illegible] to [illegible] per cent of total U.S. auto sales in the past year. [illegible] accounted for [illegible] Japanese cars, principally Toyota and Datsun, accounted for about [illegible] of them.

American Motors was the first U.S. manufacturer into the subcompact field with its Gremlin, introduced in the spring. General Motors will introduce its subcompact Vega on Sept. 10, a day before Pinto arrives in showrooms.

The Japanese don't have the U.S. [illegible] and [illegible] up by Volkswagen, but Ford said [illegible] to [illegible] those [illegible].

A Florida scientist said Tuesday that Datsun signed a multimillion-dollar contract with him for production rights to a freon-powered engine that he said is pollution-free.

Ford said he had never heard of the engine.

The price of the Pinto will not be made public until shortly before it goes into the showroom, but it will be "directly competitive" with the Volkswagen and other small imports, Ford said.

Dealers have been told that prices on other Ford and Lincoln-Mercury models will be up 3 per cent from 1970, Ford said.

"We have had some horrendous increases in the cost of materials and labor in the past years," said Ford, "as well as increased costs for emission control and safety equipment. Price increases in the past have not equaled our increased costs."

The success of American automotive makers in the subcompact market and other areas hinges on the settlement resulting from contract negotiations in progress with the United Auto Workers, Ford said, but he refused to comment on the negotiations.

Gardening 'Big Thing' For Downstate Workers

MADISON HEIGHTS (AP) — [illegible] turns on the big metalworking lathe at [illegible] Machine and Tool Co., Mel [illegible] hoes weeds and picks little bugs off the cabbage growing outside the small factory.

And [illegible] Gilmer [illegible] catalogs at his lunch [illegible] and checks the encyclopedia when things go wrong in the company garden — like the time the plants turned brown from over zealous fertilization. Gilmer started at [illegible] as a temporary employe but was hired full time — at his request because of his interest in the garden.

Walt Cunning, owner of the firm, which makes dies for use in the auto industry, says labor relations have never been much of a problem at his firm, "but this is a great, new idea."

Cunning, the owner of the firm along with son Bill, says the men interested in the garden come to work early and stay late to keep things growing well.

It all started about a year ago when tomato plants sprouted in a pile of topsoil left over from a landscaping job. [illegible], a 25-year employe of the firm, started caring for the plants. Later a little used driveway at the side of the plant was plowed and turned into a garden.

[illegible], hollyhocks, string beans, corn, cabbage and tomatoes now grow where the trucks used to park and the men are puttering about the soil during lunch and coffee breaks in addition to their off work hours. And in the plant, Bill Cunning reports, gardening has replaced sports as the main topic of conversation among workers.

But production has not suffered. If anything, young Cunning said Friday, it has improved.

"We are proud of our production record," his father said, "and always have been."

The crops are divided among the gardeners as they ripen and each new tomato and hollyhock blossom is greeted with what may seem like undue interest. The elder Cunning reports that the interest is heightened by a practice of small wagers among the workers on the color of certain blossoms or which plant will bear the first fruit.

Japanese Small Car Competition Feared

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — American car makers will face tougher competition from Japanese imports than from the Volkswagen as they try to sell their new subcompacts, Henry Ford II says.

"The Japanese have good styling, good quality and that makes them good competition," Ford said Tuesday. "We feel they are going to be the more difficult contenders."

Ford, board chairman of Ford Motor Co., was in Las Vegas for the introduction of the 1971 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury automobiles.

He predicted that the subcompacts would reverse the upward trend in foreign car sales in this country and that Ford's subcompact Pinto, to be unveiled Thursday, will outsell Volkswagen.

Foreign car sales rose from 12 to 13 per cent of total U.S. auto sales in the past year.

Volkswagen accounted for about half those sales. Japanese cars, primarily Toyota and Datsun, accounted for about one-third of them.

American Motors was the first U.S. manufacturer into the subcompact field with its Gremlin, introduced in the spring. General Motors will introduce its subcompact Vega on Sept. 10, a day before Pinto arrives in showrooms.

The Japanese don't have the U.S. marketing experience and dealer outlets built up by Volkswagen, but Ford said he expects them to overcome those obstacles soon.

A Florida scientist said Tuesday that Datsun signed a multimillion-dollar contract with him for production rights to a freon-powered engine that he said is pollution-free.

Ford said he had never heard of the engine.

The price of the Pinto will not be made public until shortly before it goes into the showroom, but it will be "directly competitive" with the Volkswagen and other small imports, Ford said.

[illegible] Crop Looks Good, [illegible] [illegible]-Months Long

[illegible] will [illegible] of duck shooting this year in what the State Natural Resources Department [illegible] since [illegible].

The commission, [illegible] Wednesday, approved [illegible] that will run from Oct. 7-Nov. 30. Hunters will have 15 days more hunting than they had in 1969, when some 800,000 ducks were bagged.

Bag Limit Hiked

In addition, the commission approved an increased basic bag limit of six birds per day and 12 in possession. These limits, up from four and eight of last season, are "the most generous in [illegible] years," the department said.

A "much improved duck picture for 1970" led to the longer shooting period and the relaxed basic kill quotas, the department said.

The commission doubled the daily and possession limits on mallards from last year, allowing hunters to take two of these birds per day and have four in possession.

Special Kill Quota

Several other species of ducks came under special kill quotas geared to their population levels, the department said. Within the basic daily limit of six, sportsmen will also have the choice of shooting one black duck, two wood ducks and one canvasback or one redhead. These individual quotas are the same as during the 1969 season.

The possession limit on these birds, meanwhile, is double the daily quota covering them, except in the case of canvasbacks and redhead ducks. Michigan hunters will be allowed to have only one canvasback or one redhead in possession.

Goose-Shooting Dates

Besides setting the duck season, the commission Wednesday marked out this fall's goose shooting dates and bag limits, which match those of 1969.

This fall's season, following the 1969 format which produced a harvest of some 40,000 geese, will open Oct. 1 and close Nov. 30 in the Upper and Northern Lower Peninsulas. Southern Michigan's goose season will kick off concurrently with the Oct. 7 duck opener and run through Nov. 30.

Bag limits on geese for [illegible] remain unchanged from last year at five birds per day and five in possession. Within those limits, [illegible] Canada geese may be included.

[illegible]

In addition, during the regular duck season, hunters anywhere in the state may take two blue-winged teal over and above the basic limit of six birds per day. Also statewide, they may add two extra scaup to their daily take from Nov. 1-Nov. 30.

Meanwhile, the department announced a departure from the [illegible] goose shooting schedule limiting the sport to mornings only throughout the Saginaw County Goose Management Area. The goose season there will run Oct. 1-Nov. 14. In Allegan County, goose hunting will cover the Oct. 23-Nov. 14 period.

[illegible] Area Date Set

The [illegible] Goose Management Area will be open to goose hunting for the first time in four years, with a season set for Oct. 1-30 and a daily bag limited to one Canada goose.

Coots, rails and gallinules this fall will again be legal targets during the regular duck season. Jacksnipe will also come under the gun on the Oct. 7 duck opener but Nov. 2 will be the last day for taking these birds.

Daily and possession limits on coots have been raised to 15 and 30 for this fall, compared with 10 and 20 last year. Quotas remain the same on rails and gallinules—15 and 30—and on jacksnipe—8 and 16.

Inflammable Clothes Hit By Survey Group

LANSING (AP)—A little boy in a kitchen [illegible] past a toaster. A spark shooting from the can touches his cape, setting it afire. The child suffers extensive burns.

A little girl at a birthday party winds up in the hospital after cake candles ignite her dress. Another severe burn case.

Pictures of these and other horribly burned youngsters were shown to a House committee Wednesday as Dr. Irving Feller, chief of the University of Michigan Hospital burn unit, testified in favor of a bill calling for youngsters' outer clothes to be tested for flammability before being sold in the state.

Says Untreated Fabric

"I'm not saying fabric causes injury," Feller told the House Committee on Consumers and Agriculture. "But the (untreated) fabric makes it worse."

Feller said treatment of material "can stop the severity of injury" from fire. As a case in point, he noted that race car drivers involved in flaming crashes have burns on their heads, hands and feet—but not their torsos if they are wearing protective suits.

Wallace Chamberlain, secretary of the American Apparel Manufacturers Association, told the committee that the purpose of the pending bill "in attempting to protect our children from the hazards of flammable clothing is commendable.

Hardship Feared

"However, we feel that this approach on a state level, and as written, is not only impractical but would work a hardship on the retailers and consumers in the state of Michigan," said Chamberlain, president of the Gill Manufacturing Corp., which has plants in Grand Rapids, Jackson and Belding.

Chamberlain noted that a similar hearing on the same topic was being held in Washington and said "I am sure that as a result... there will be additional federal regulations regarding fabric flammability."

Eyes Federal Action

He urged that the state await results of federal action.

Roger Wilson, product manager for the H.H. Cutler Co. of Grand Rapids, said, "We all agree with the necessity of providing the best possible material for our infants and children."

But, he said, "at the present time, and based on research by the American Retail Federation and any number of private laboratories, there is not an untreated cotton or cotton blend fabric that will pass the test" included in the bill.

Clothes Would Be Tested

The measure, introduced by Rep. Richard Allen, R-Ithaca, would provide that outer garments for children under 12 must be specially tested and "self-extinguishing after flame removal" to be sold in Michigan.

Wilson added that several major department stores have tried selling children's clothes that have been treated against flames and "consumer acceptance of the fabric has been very poor" because the garments cost more with the treatment than without.

He said enactment of Allen's bill would, because of technical and consumer problems, "preclude from sale in Michigan nearly everything manufactured in children wear in the United States today."

Mercury Found In Duck Samples

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Thomas S. Kleppe, R-N.D. said today Interior Department officials have discovered mercury in 26 ducks taken as samples from North Dakota and Michigan's Lake St. Clair—Detroit River area.

Kleppe said he has asked for a full report on the contamination residues found in breast muscles and livers.

Highest levels were found in shovelers from North Dakota. Because shovelers are water feeders, Kleppe said the findings indicate that mercury probably is getting into the wetlands.

100 Count Used In Duck Hunting

WASHINGTON (AP) One hundred is the stop-shooting number under an optional point system states may use for bag limits of ducks this year instead of the old bird-count system.

For instance, in the Central Flyway, the point system shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset.

The point values according to species and sex are, according to the Interior Department: hen mallards, black ducks, wood ducks, redheads, canvasbacks, hooded mergansers and New Mexico ducks count 90 points each; drake mallards, mottled ducks, hen pintails and ring-necked ducks count 20 points each. All other species and sexes of ducks and mergansers count 10 points each.

The daily bag limit is reached when the point value of the last bird taken added to the points of other birds taken during the day reaches or exceeds 100 points.

The possession limit shall be the maximum number of birds of species and sex which could legally have been taken in two days. Coots have a point value of zero, but the bag is limited to 15 daily and 30 in possession as under the conventional limits.

Under the point system the season length is 70 days for North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. It is 90 days for Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico. Under the old system the limit is 70 days in all states.

To Attend Meet

EAST LANSING (AP)—State Police Cpl. Richard Horwood, 36, of Marquette, has been selected to attend Northwestern University Traffic Institute at Evanston, Ill., the department has announced. Horwood is to begin a nine-month traffic police administration training program Sept. 16. The schooling is paid for by federal and state funds.

Duck Crop Looks Good, Season 2-Months Long

LANSING (AP) — Michigan hunters will have nearly two months of duck shooting this year in what the State Natural Resources Department calls "the most liberal duck season since the mid-1950's."

The commission, polled by telephone Wednesday, approved a season that will run from Oct. 7-Nov. 30. Hunters will have 15 days more action than they had in 1969, when some 500,000 ducks were bagged.

Bag Limit Hiked

In addition, the commission approved an increased basic bag limit of six birds per day and 12 in possession. Those limits, up from four and eight of last season, are "the most generous in about 30 years," the department said.

A "much improved duck picture for 1970" led to the longer shooting period and the relaxed basic kill quotas, the department said.

The commission doubled the daily and possession limits on mallards from last year, allowing hunters to take two of these birds per day and have four in possession.

Special Kill Quota

Several other species of ducks come under special kill quotas pegged to their population levels the department said. Within the basic daily limit of six, sportsmen will also have the choice of shooting one black duck, two wood ducks and one canvasback or one rehead. Those individual quotas are the same as during the 1969 season.

The possession limit on these birds, meanwhile, is double the daily quota covering them, except in the case of canvasbacks and redhead ducks. Michigan hunters will be allowed to have only one canvasback or one redhead in possession.

Goose-Shooting Dates

Besides setting the duck season, the commission Wednesday marked out this fall's goose shooting dates and bag limits, which match those of 1969.

This fall's season, following the 1969 format which produced a harvest of some 49,000 geese, will open Oct. 1 and close Nov. 30 in the Upper and Northern Lower Peninsulas. Southern Michigan's goose season will kick off concurrently with the Oct. 7 duck opener and run through Nov. 30.

Bag limits on geese for 1970 remain unchanged from last year at five birds per day and five in possession. Within those limits, two Canada geese may be included.

Teal Limit Up

In addition, during the regular duck season, hunters anywhere in the state may take two blue-winged teal over and above the basic limit of six birds per day. Also statewide, they may add two extra scaup to their daily take from Nov. 1-Nov. 30.

Meanwhile, the department announced a departure from the uniform goose shooting schedule limiting the sport to mornings only throughout the Saginaw County Goose Management Area. The goose season there will run Oct. 1-Nov. 14. in Allegan County, goose hunting will cover the Oct. 21-Nov. 14 period.

Seney Area Date Set

The Seney Goose Management Area will be open to goose hunting for the first time in four years, with a season set for Oct. 1-30 and a daily bag limited to one Canada goose.

Coots, rails and gallinules this fall will again be legal targets during the regular duck season. Jacksnipe will also come under the run on the Oct. 7 duck opener but Nov. 3 will be the last day for taking these birds.

Daily and possession limits on coots have been raised to 15 and 30 for this fall, compared with 10 and 20 last year. Quotas remain the same on rails and gallinules—15 and 30—and on jacksnipe—8 and 16.

No Possibility For State Help, Schools Told

LANSING + — Gov. William Milliken said today that he saw "no possibility" the state would be able to pay local school district costs for books and other materials they must provide under a recent State Supreme Court decision.

Milliken told a news conference that budgeting for the next fiscal year would reflect the added costs, but he added:

"I see no possibility the state will come up with his money at the present time."

The state's high court ruled that schools must provide books and certain other items for their pupils, instead of requiring the youngsters to pay for their materials themselves.

In a list of guidelines released Tuesday, the education department said schools must provide items required for courses that offer credit.

Pupils would have to pay for their own materials for other noncredit activities, such as football.

Success Keeps You Living Much Longer

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Successs adds years to your life as well as life to your years. A study of prominent men over 45 listed in "Who's Who in America" showed they had a mortality rate only 70 per cent that of the white male population as a whole.

Why our air is polluted: Every car on the road each year pours out of its exhaust between one quarter and one half ton of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons.

A baby is regarded as immature if it weights 5 pounds, 8 ounces or less at birth. About 8 out of every 100 infants fall in this category.

Know your language: During the 17th century the Pinmakers Guild of London was forced to pay $2,500 a year to King Charles I, who turned the money over his queen. Thus was created the expression "pin money." How much do you give your wife?

Quotable notables: "Nature gives you the face you have at 20; it is up to you to merit the face you have at 50."—Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel, French designer.

Keep on the go: evidence is accumulating to prove the thesis that the active life is the healthier one. A study of 3,000 longshoremen over a 16-year period found that those with comparatively sedentary jobs had a death rate from heart attacks one third higher than those who moved cargo.

In need of help: About 24 million Americans are classified as handicapped. They include 18 million who are physically disabled and almost 6 million who are mentally retarded.

Adult High School Program Announced

Robert Koski, director of the Escanaba Community School Program, today announced pre-registration procedure for adults who are planning to enroll in the Adult High School Completion Program.

The program is open again this year to all adults regardless of residency, age, or previous schooling. Classes will be held primarily in the evening at the local high school beginning the week of Sept. 21.

Pre-registration is necessary for two reasons. Past records for each student must be obtained to determine his requirements and it must be known what classes the student is interested in. Before a class can be offered, a minimum number of students must indicate an interest.

Pre-registration can be made by telephone 786-4680 between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. Monday through Friday, or in person at the Community School Office, Room 251, 1500 Ludington St. In Gladstone call Bob Richards at 425-3321.

Under state law, the classes will be tuition free to any adult who has not completed high school, any veteran who has seen active duty since Jan. 31, 1955, or any youth under 20.

Classes are also open to anyone else who wishes to enroll. If you have a high school diploma and are over 20 years of age, a small fee will be charged to cover the cost of operation.

The state reimburses the school for the cost of educating the adult who is working for credit. There is no reimbursement for those taking the course for personal enrichment (non-credit) . . . In order for the school district to be eligible for reimbursement, credit-seeking adults must be enrolled in September.

Tentative class offerings include: English, Math, American Government, U. S. History, Environment Problems, Clothing Services and Construction, Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Office Practice, Consumer Economics, G. E. D. Preparation, and Home Improvement.

Nixon's Science Adviser Quits

MURRAY HILL, N.J. (AP) — His executive secretary and his wife say Dr. Edward E. David Jr., President Nixon's choice for a science adviser, is "almost unflappable."

The President announced Wednesday the resignation of Dr. Lee A. DuBridge and said he would nominate David to replace him as director of the Office of Science and Technology.

David, 45, is executive director of communications systems research at Bell Laboratories in Murray Hill. He also will replace DuBridge as presidential science adviser, a position that does not require Senate confirmation.

"He's almost unflappable. He never gets uptight," David's executive secretary, Mary Ann Sembrot, said in an interview. "He's an efficient, organized, friendly man."

"That's absolutely correct," his wife, Ann, said later in nearby Summit. The Davids live in a comfortable colonial - style house there with their daughter, Nancy, 12.

David has been with Bell Laboratories since 1950, the year he received a doctorate from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He engaged in underwater sound research and communications systems until 1958, when he began specializing in research on communications between man and computers.

Market Leveling After Upswing

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market levelled off as the rally of the two previous sessions apparently ran out of steam.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 0.82 at 723.17. Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange had a slight edge over decliners. Trading was light.

The market had opened on an upbeat note today. The Dow industrial average had climbed 1.02 points by the first half hur of trading and winners had held nearly a 2 to 1 advantage over losers. Shortly afterward the market turned downward.

The downturn appeared to have spelled the end of a two-session rally in which the industrial average had gained nearly 15 points. In five of the six sessions prior to Tuesday, the blue-chip indicator had receded as volume hovered near the lowest levels of the year.

Analysts attributed the rally to several news developments on the economic front including a call by the President's chief economic adviser for a speedup in the economy and loosening of some credit funds by the Federal Reserve Board.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .2 at 228.6. Industrials were up .2, rails off .1 and utilities up .4.

In the Forget-Me-Not sale on Friday and Saturday the DAV will be assisted by Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, and all of the workers will be identified with DAV hats or arm bands.

Crops Exhibits Show Maturity

The U. P. State Fair is one week later this year than last — and the farm crops exhibits show the gain that even one more week of growing time will bring, says J. L. Heirman, Delta County extension director and judge of agriculture at the Fair.

"Last year, for instance, there was only one tomato sample; this year there are several and the entries are riper and more mature," he said.

"It's the same with potatoes. They show more size and quality than a year ago," Heirman reported. "There is also a better representation of vegetables and of corn and grains and hay — all due to that extra week this year."

First premium on a 32-sample of early potatoes went to Larry Steck of Iron Mountain and on late potatoes to Russel Beauchamp of Escanaba; and an exhibit of red ripe tomatoes brought a first premium blue ribbon to Francis DeGroot of Northland.

Among other first premiums in agriculture: Mark Romashke of Escanaba, Rte. 1, for alsike and red clover and for a sheaf of oats and timothy; James Daldic of Carney, sheaf of barley; Mrs. Lydia Cowell, Kipling, peck of apples; Rita Arjasis, 1420 2nd Ave. S., for white onions.

Mrs. James L. Johnson took first premium for beets; Jerome Sinneave, Escanaba Rte. 1, green beans; Mrs. Tony Derkos, Escanaba, Rte. 1, wax beans; and Paul Dittrich, Bark River, Rte. 1, corn.

Storm Demolishes Canadian Village

SUDBURY, Ont. (AP) — A freak storm with torrential rains and 90 mile-an-hour winds swept through the Sudbury area near Lake Huron today, tearing down buildings, upsetting railroad box cars and overturning a tractor.

Provincial police reported 10 persons killed and an undetermined number injured.

Police originally reported that the nearby town of Lively, a community of 3,000 persons, was demolished by the winds and rains. But this turned out to be erroneous, although the town suffered extensive damage.

In Sudbury, where three persons were killed, Mayor Fabbro declared the city a disaster area.

Thousands were reported left homeless in the area.

District Court

Clarence Visnaw, 1315 Sheridan Rd., was sentenced to 15 days in the Delta County Jail and ordered to pay $68 costs after he was found guilty of assault and battery.

Elaine M. Smith, Benzonia, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of writing an insufficient funds check and was sentenced to 17 days in the Delta County Jail and ordered to pay costs of $28.

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed Aug. 31-Sept. 4 as American Institute of Banking week in Michigan. In another proclamation, the governor designated Sept. 17 as Steuben Day, honoring Gen. Frederick William Steuben, a German who offered his services to the United States under George Washington.

The 1969 All - Star baseball game was scheduled for floodlights but it rained the night of the game and was played the next day in Washington.

Rudyard Firm Gains Top Cheese Honors

By BILL CADEAU

The Rudyard Cheese Company, one of the oldest in the state, swept top honors for the second year in a row at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, capturing the "Grand Champion" award at this week's judging.

The Eastern Upper Peninsula firm took four blue ribbons with judges James Russell, supervisor of the Diary Division, Michigan Department of Agriculture, and Harold Lauer, an official with the Department of Agriculture, making the choices.

The Rudyard plant, with Bert Jeske as manager and cheesemaker, gained first place honors for fresh colby, which brought it the "Grand Champion" prize, and also topped all other firms with its entries in the aged colby, fresh cheddar and aged cheddar divisions.

Pauley Cheese Company of Daggett snared runner-up honors in both the fresh colby and aged colby divisions. Copper Country Cheese Co-op of Dollar Bay rated second in aged cheddar and butter, while gaining a white ribbon for its cottage cheese entry.

Rapid River Cheese Company took third place honors in three divisions, gaining citations for fresh colby, aged colby and fresh cheddar.

Carney Milk Products, Inc., won top honors for its entry in the foreign-type cheese division. National Dairy (A&P division) of Stephenson topped the butter entries at the U.P. Fair. Ontonagon Valley Co-Op of Bruce Crossing was third in the butter-judging.

Bancroft Dairy of Marquette topped the cottage cheese field with Jilbert Dairy of Calumet gaining runner-up honors and Copper Country Cheese finishing third in the judging.

Russell stated the entries were fully as good as last year and the competition was very close. Only fractions of a point made the difference in judging most entries, he said.

"With only six cheese factories operating in the Upper Peninsula, and the fact that each company can enter only one item in each division, limits the number of entries at the Fair each year," he said.

Russell and Lauer congratulated the U.P. firms for sending their entries to the Fair each year and said their interest keeps the judging going from year to year.

Gray Knaus of Cornell, the superintendent of the Junior Beef Division said, "It was a good average sale. None of the steers went high and none went low."

Nixon's Science Adviser Quits

MURRAY HILL, N.J. (AP) — His executive secretary and his wife say Dr. Edward E. David Jr., President Nixon's choice for a science adviser, is "almost unflappable."

The President announced Wednesday the resignation of Dr. Lee A. DuBridge and said he would nominate David to replace him as director of the Office of Science and Technology.

David, 45, is executive director of communications systems research at Bell Laboratories in Murray Hill. He also will replace DuBridge as presidential science adviser, a position that does not require Senate confirmation.

"He's almost unflappable. He never gets uptight," David's executive secretary, Mary Ann Sembrot, said in an interview. "He's an efficient, organized, friendly man."

"That's absolutely correct," his wife, Ann, said later in nearby Summit. The Davids live in a comfortable colonial - style house there with their daughter, Nancy, 13.

David has been with Bell Laboratories since 1950, the year he received a doctorate from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He engaged in underwater sound research and communications acoustics until 1963, when he began specializing in research on communications between men and computers.

Hart 'Out In Left Field,' Mrs. Romney Tells Group

Mrs. Lenore Romney, in town for a two - hour visit Tuesday, promised "it will be significant" if she is elected since "I'm running because I'm involved and concerned; I have insight (into our country's problems) and want to use that insight."

Hart Called Liberal

She termed her opponent, incumbent Sen. Phil Hart, as being "way out in left field—as liberal as can be" and assailed Hart's voting record in Congress during "the disastrous years, 1960-68, when he voted for every spending bill, even offered amendments to some of the spending bills, supported deficit spending, favored escalating and funding the war in Vietnam.

"Now he votes against every defense measure proposed by President Nixon," Mrs. Romney continued, "and this proves to me that he is unable to establish priorities."

What Happened In 60s?

"Hart now says he wants to set priorities in the 1970s but where was he in the 1960s?" she asked.

"I need your help desperately for election," she told a group of "Lenore-for-Senate" supporters during a luncheon at the Surf.

Before leaving Manistique, she stopped at Harborview Towers, the new Senior Citizens Housing Project, for a short visit and then greeted shoppers in the business district. Her son Mitt accompanied his mother.

Photographer Along

Also in the Romney party was a photographer from a national magazine who is covering her campaign swing in the Upper Peninsula. The story will be featured in an October issue of Look Magazine.

[illegible] Central Upper Peninsula [illegible] Development [illegible] (CUPEDD) [illegible] a comprehensive [illegible] planning study [illegible] County Board [illegible] during Tuesday's [illegible] meeting.

The study will include only [illegible] Manistique City [illegible] planning [illegible] several years ago.

[illegible]

The agreement with CUPEDD was [illegible] on an annual basis, with the option of renewal each year for not more than three years. The study will cost $4,000 per year and will include an in-depth study and statistical analysis of county properties, with appropriate recommendations, plus CUPEDD's assistance in applying for outside project funding.

The board asked that first year studies be conducted in areas of housing and recreation, population identification and economic base (industry and jobs, earning abilities, etc.)

Survey Detailed

George Rusch, executive chairman of CUPEDD, Greg May, CUPEDD planner, told the board the total survey would also include land use and ownership, transportation, sewer and water, education, natural resources, public facilities (court house, hospital), zoning and subdivision regulations plus recommendations for implementing improvement programs.

County Clerk Ferdinand Lacles asked if the CUPEDD study would also include maps of the individual townships, since none are available, and was told this could possibly be done.

Dog Control

"The extent of our responsibility on dog control does not include hiring a dog warden," board chairman Lindsley Frenette told Mayor Douglas Rose who inquired on dog enforcement on behalf of the city. Frenette said the board adopted a dog ordinance and appropriated money for dog control but that enforcement came under the sheriff's department.

Lesica said he thought the sheriff had hired a new warden to replace Ed Jones, who resigned recently.

Commissioner Russell Tennant recommended Manistique Decorators bid of $577 for new drapes for the sheriff's living quarters and an estimate from George Bosanic for painting the jail living quarters, in the amount of $480, be accepted. The board accepted the drapery bid but asked that Tennant contact Bosanic for a firm bid and not an estimate.

Tennant also reported a new dehumidifier for the tax department, costing $93.60, was purchased and recommended the county consider a new tractor-mower for the court house grounds.

Detention Facility Needed

Commissioner Ernest Hoholik reported a meeting with county officials on the need for a juvenile detention facility for lodging youngsters who commit felonies and said the possibility of a cooperative facility with one or two neighboring counties was being studied. Montgomery Says He Spent $15,012 In Losing Effort

LANSING (AP) — George F. Montgomery, the Detroit lawmaker who ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination earlier this month, reported Wednesday that he spent more than $15,012 on his campaign.

Montgomery, who now says he is available for the lieutenant governor post to be filled this weekend at the party's state convention, said the figure represented an expenditure of about 35 cents for each of the approximately 40,000 votes he won in the primary.

Of the total expenditure, Montgomery said disbursements totaled $11,890 and he had some $3,508 in "unpaid obligations." In addition, Montgomery said some $12,306 had been collected through fund raising activities.

"Apparently a GFM birthday party—he will be 37 Friday—and-or a GFM retirement party will be necessary before year-end to clear the books of the $2,716 operating deficit left over from. . the campaign," Montgomery's statement said.

Montgomery will be leaving his position as House majority floor leader at the end of this year.

Hart 'Out In Left Field,' Mrs. Romney Tells Group

Mrs. Lenore Romney, in town for a two - hour visit Tuesday, promised "it will be significant" if she is elected since "I'm running because I'm involved and concerned; I have insight (into our country's problems) and want to use that insight."

Hart Called Liberal

She termed her opponent, incumbent Sen. Phil Hart, as being "way out in left field—as liberal as can be" and assailed Hart's voting record in Congress during "the disastrous years, 1960-68, when he voted for every spending bill, even offered amendements to some of the spending bills, supported deficit spending, favored escalating and funding the war in Vietnam.

'Now he votes against every 'defense measure proposed by President Nixon," Mrs. Romney continued, "and this proves to me that he is unable to establish priorities."

What Happened In 60s?

"Hart now says he wants to set priorities in the 1970s but where was he in the 1960s?" she asked.

"I need your help desperately for election," she told a group of "Lenore-for-Senate" supporters during a luncheon at the Surf.

Before leaving Manistique, she stopped at Harborview Towers, the new Senior Citizens Housing Project, for a short visit and then greeted shoppers in the business district. Her son Mitt accompanied his mother.

Marichal Wins Fourth Straight, Beats Pirates

By The Associated Press

Juan Marichal had just staggered to his fourth straight victory, stalling Pittsburgh's chances of picking up ground in the torrid East Division race but still likes the Pirates chances of winning it all.

"The Pirates have a great infield and are a great hitting club but man they have to score too many runs to win," the San Francisco right-hander said Wednesday night after giving up 13 hits to the hard-hitting Pirates, but coming out with a 7-4 victory, to give him a 6-9 record.

Have Best Chance To Win

"If their pitching is okay, they have the best chance to win," said Marichal after increasing his record to 7-9, after being slowed earlier in the season with an ear infection.

In other National League games, Houston trounced the New York Mets 9-4, Chicago bombed San Diego 12-2, Los Angeles downed St. Louis 4-2, Atlanta edged Philadelphia 3-2 and Montreal tripped Cincinnati 8-6.

Marichal was supported by a 10-hit Giants' attack, including a two-run homer by Willie McCovey, the big first baseman's 32nd of the year as the Pirates remained 2½ games ahead of the Mets with the Cubs only four back.

Pittsburgh left-hander Luke Walker, 10-4, had a six-game winning streak snapped, giving up a pair of runs in the opening inning on a run-scoring single to Ken Henderson and a bases-full walk.

McCovey Homers

McCovey then slammed his homer in the fifth, giving the Giants a 4-0 edge.

"For four innings I pitched real good," Marichal said. "I felt good. But after that I couldn't get the ball quite where I wanted to and made a few mistakes. Everything was hanging."

The Pirates got two runs in the fifth but San Francisco put the game out of reach in the eighth with three runs, including a two-run double by Bobby Bonds. Matty Alou stroked five straight hits off Marichal.

Cubs Hit 7 Round Trippers

The Cubs drilled seven home runs including two by Jim Hickman to help Ferguson Jenkins gain his 15th victory.

Jenkins added one while Billy Williams, Johnny Callison, Joe Pepitone and Glenn Beckert had the others, matching the league's season high for a game set April 21 by Cincinnati against Atlanta.

Hickman drove in five runs while Jenkins had 11 strikeouts to go over the 200 mark for the fourth successive season with 207. Clarence Gaston homered for the Padres.

The Astros rocked Tom Seaver and three relievers for 14 hits in their rout of the Mets.

A pair of triples, a bases-loaded belt by Denis Menke and a two-run shot by Jesus Alou accounted for five of the Houston runs. Seaver, 17-8, left in the sixth inning, his earliest exit in 28 starts this year.

Shortstop Sets Record

Bud Harrelson, New York's shortstop, tied a major league record with his 54th consecutive errorless game, set last year by the Cubs' Don Kessinger.

Rusty Staub triggered a six-run Montreal fifth inning as the Expos dropped the Reds for the second straight game, giving Montreal the distinction of becoming the first club this season to take a series at Cincinnati.

The Expos jumped on loser Gary Nolan, 15-5, for six singles and Ron Brand capped the big fifth inning with a two-run triple. Tony Perez slugged a two-run triple. Tony Perez slugged a two-run homer for the Reds, his 30th. Bob Bailey had a solo shot for the Expos.

Willie Davis cracked a 2-2 tie with a two-run, bases-loaded single in the ninth inning for the Dodgers' triumph. The Cards had homers from Joe Hague and Lou Brock while Manny Mota had one for Los Angeles.

Atlanta came from behind in the eighth inning on run-scoring hits by Sonny Jackson and Felix Millan for their narrow victory over the Phils. Deron Johnson and Rick Wise homered for the Phils' runs off winner Pat Jarvis, 14-10.

Haack, riding [illegible] Ghost, who is a [illegible] quarter-horse that has a predominant winning record around the country, won the Grand Championship and a trophy in the fitting and showing competition, which is known as the beauty contest of the show.

Haack, who was runner-up in the grand championship in 1969, was judged on how he got his horse ready for the show.

Defending Champion Joyce Hietala of Chassell took Haack's place this year in the runner-up position.

Largest Class Ever

Maria Anderson, 15, daughter of Mrs. Clara Anderson of Mounted Route, Gladstone, is the new Grand Champion in horsemanship, in which the riders are judged on their ability in showing their mounts in walking, trotting and cantering.

Maria, riding Sherry, who is an American saddle horse, did a fine job against a lot of tough competition including 60 other riders to win the outstanding prize.

Friday, the 4-H program will close out with the speed and action competition, which includes pole bending, barrel and key-hole racing.

Trevino Takes Aim At Leading Money Winner

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Lee Trevino, his slump snapped and his game back in gear, took aim on Jack Nicklaus' leading money-winning spot today.

"I've had my vacation and Jack has to skip a week here and there," Trevino said before setting out in the first round of the $160,000 Avco Golf Classic.

The flamboyant Mexican-American was shut out in his quest of a major championship this year and obviously wants the consolation of the No. 1 spot on the money-winning list.

He won two titles, the Tucson and National Airlines opens, early this year and stopped the money list most of the season until Nicklaus caught him last month.

Trevino has about $122,000 and trails Nickleus by about $8,000. But Nicklaus, along with Arnold Palmer, is skipping this tournament and Trevino is one of the favorites for the $32,000 first prize.

Trevino snapped a mild slump last week when he fired a course record-matching 65 in the final round of the PGA National Championship.

He hadn't played well for some time before that, and his troubles reached a peak when he withdrew at Philadelphia and then was disqualified from the Westchester Classic when he overslept and missed his tee time.

Athletics Halt Tiger Streak

OAKLAND (AP) — Catcher Gene Tenace, who came to the Oakland Athletics as a replacement for another player on summer duty with the Marines, may have earned himself a regular place on the roster.

"We'll certainly take a good look at him," Manager John McNamara said after Tenace collected a pair of singles and scored a run in a 7-0 rout of the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night.

Tigers Streak Ends

The loss broke a four game winning streak the Tigers had collected on their west coast trip against the California Angels and the Oakland club.

The Tigers have the day off today and host the Milwaukee Brewers Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Detroit.

Tenace was brought up from Des Moines a week ago to fill in for catcher Dave Duncan who will be in the service until this weekend. In his brief stay, Tenace is hitting .333.

4-Hit Shutout

Diego Segui, who was pulled out of the bullpen two months ago, pitched a four-hit shutout for his eighth victory of the season.

"I had lots of help," he said "We got runs which I hadn't been getting in the last few games."

Segui still thinks like a relief pitcher. He doesn't like to have runners on base. "I always felt bad if I gave up a run when I came in to pitch in relief. I felt I wasn't doing my job."

As a starter I tried to stay out of trouble by not letting anyone get on base."

Segui struck out six and walked three. He didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning when Bill Freehan singled.

Oakland got all the runs it needed on a second-inning homer by Don Mincher. It was his 21st of the season and came with Sal Bando on base. Oakland scored four insurance runs in the eighth inning.

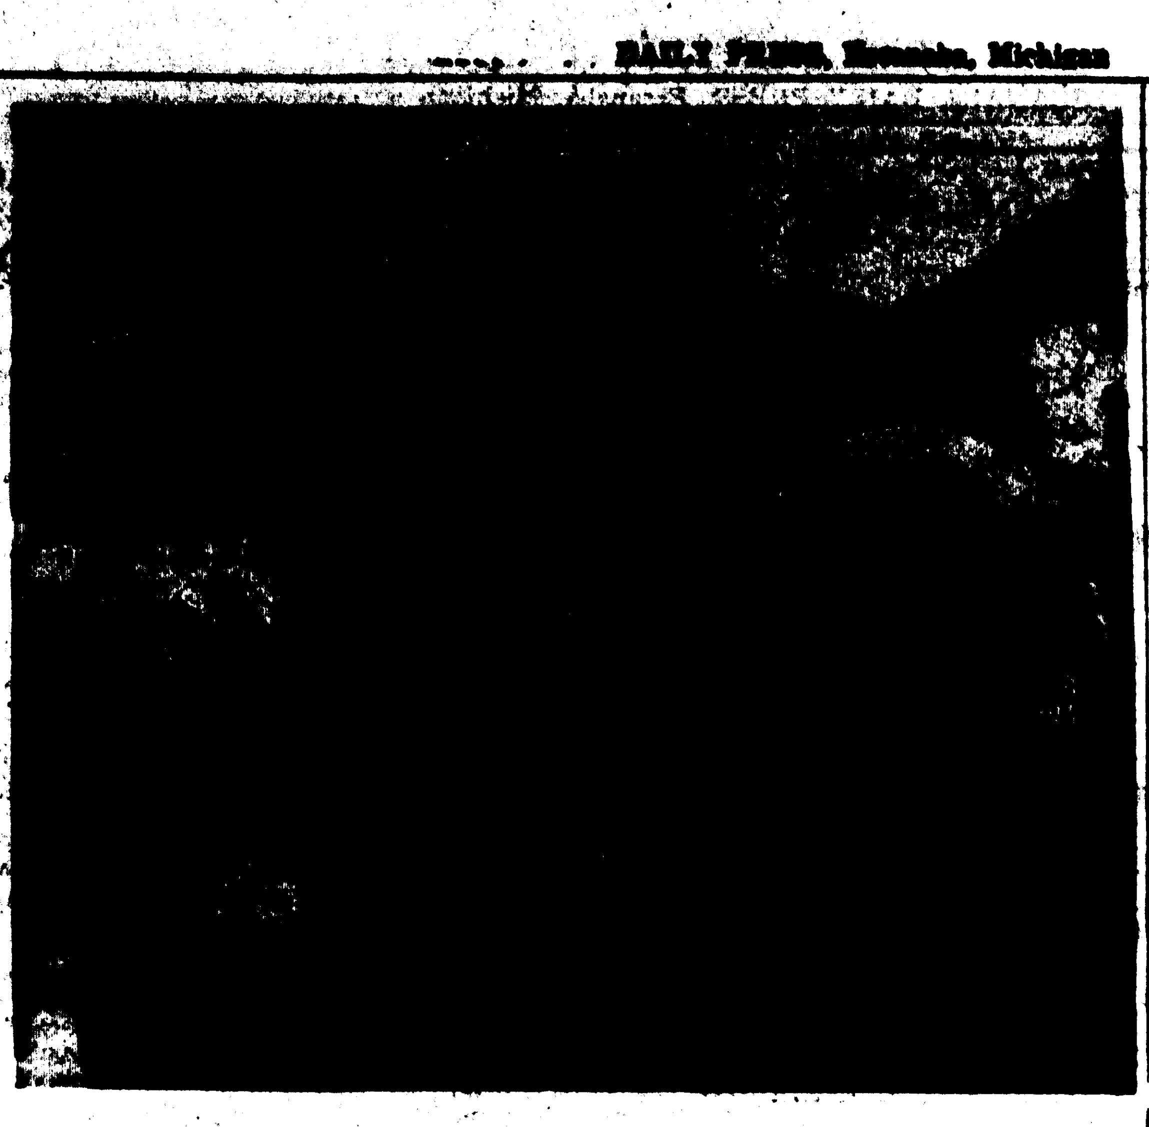
Colonels Sweep Pair From Hens

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Columbus took a pair of games from Toledo by identical 5-4 scores Wednesday.

The Jets used ninth inning rallies to win both games. Columbus, trailing 4-3, collected two runs in the ninth in the first game. Trailing 4-0 in the second game, the Jets netted five runs in the ninth to beat the Mud Hens.



GETTING THE 'FEEL' OF THINGS — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets practices hurling the ball Tuesday at the Jets training camp at Hofstra University on Long Island. Earlier Namath said he didn't think he could play ball this season, blaming both business and physical problems for his statement. Namath checked into the training camp Tuesday after being AWOL for almost two weeks. (AP Wirephoto)

America Cup Races Continue

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — With one protest already rejected and another scheduled to be ruled on today, the four United States yachts competing for selection as the defender in the America's Cup continue their series of races on Rhode Island Sound.

Intrepid faces Heritage and Valiant opposes Weatherly in the third day of the final trials.

Following Wednesday's races, Valiant had a 2-0 record, Intrepid and Heritage were 1-1 and Weatherly 0-2—but all that is dependant on a ruling on a protest by Heritage against Valiant.

Skipper Charles Morgan Jr. of Heritage hoisted the protest flag at the start of his race against Valiant Wednesday contending Valiant violated his right of way in a starting line foul.

He claimed Valiant was too windward and thus required to give way, although both were on the same tack.

Valiant went on to defeat Heritage by 3 minutes, 47 seconds, building an advantage on every leg in good conditions with 10 to 15 knot southeasterly wind.

Intrepid easily whipped Weatherly in the first race by 7 minutes, 31 seconds over the triangular 24.2-mile course.

The 'Pack Will Be Back' But '70 May Not Be Year

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The "Pack will be back," but 1970 probably won't be the year.

Coach Phil Bengtson has almost completely rebuilt the famed Green Bay Packers who swept three consecutive NFL-AFL Football League titles and two Super Bowl championships in 1965-66-67. Retirements forced most of the changes, while trades accomplished the rest.

The green-and-gold-clad warriors still around who were vital parts of those "Golden Years' include quarterback Bart Starr, now in his 15th NFL season; wide receiver Carroll Dale, center Ken Bowman, guard Gale Gillingham; defensive end Lionel Aldridge, linebackers Dave Robinson and Ray Nitschke and defensive backs Willie Wood and Bob Jeter.

Gillingham is the youngster of the group at 26, while Aldridge and Robinson are 29 each. Bowman is 27; Dale 32; Nitschke, Wood and Jeter, each 33 and Starr 36.

Vikes, Lions Tough

While Green Bay might have improved itself with trades and the college draft, it is not believed the Packers can catch either Minnesota or Detroit who they finished behind in the Central Division last season.

Starr is a proven leader, but injuries have cut deeply into his playing time the last two seasons. Don Horn, a fourth-year man out of San Diego State, could provide the Packers with a more exciting attack if he takes over for Starr. Horn also is more erratic.

One spot Phil Bengtson is not worried about is running back, where he can call on five veterans with impressive credentials. The most explosive are speedsters Travis Williams and Dave Hampton, while Perry Williams, Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski are only a step behind.

The running back spots are so well fortified that Bengtson traded veteran Elijah Pitts along with offensive lineman Bob Hyland and linebacker Lee Roy Caffey to the Bears for Chicago's No. 1 draft pick.

With the choice the Packers picked massive Mike McCoy of Notre Dame and immediately put the 6-foot-5, 284-pounder into the right tackle spot left vacant by the retirement of Henry Jordan.

Aldridge is still one of the best in the business at right end, while sophomore Rich Moore, 6-6, 285, is at left tackle and Bob Brown, 6-5, 270, is at left end, giving the Packers one of the biggest front —— in pro football.

Nitschke is flanked at linebacker by Robinson, recuperatin from a cracked rib suffered in practice, and Fred Carr, the Packers' top draft choice in 1968 who has taken over for the departed Caffey.

The unexpected retirement of Herb Adderley has left a big hole at left cornerback. Bengtson will fill the post with Leon Harden of Texas-El Paso, who was on the taxi squad last season, or rookies Ken Ellis of Southern, a speedster, and Alvin Matthews, the second round draft choice from Texas A. & I.

The rest of the defensive backfield remains intact: Wood at the other corner and Jeter and Doug Hart at the safeties.

Bowman Center

Ken Bowman hasn't been ousted from the center job since halfway through the first super bowl game in 1967. He's flanked by guards Bill Lueck and Gillingham and tackles Francis Peay and Dick Himes.

John Spilis, a second-year man from northern Illinois taking over for the retired Boyd Dowler, is a perfect partner for Dale at the wide receiver spots.

Veteran John Hilton, obtained from Pittsburg, and sophomore Ron Jones will battle for the tight end spot with Rich McGeorge, the Packers' other No. 1 draft choice, who just got out of the Army last weekend.

The field goal kicking, which will be handled by either Booth Lusteg or Joe Runk, can't help but be better. Last season, the Packers only connected on 6 of 21 and had seven blocked.

Houk 'Kicks Up Storm,' But Yankees Bite Dust

By The Associated Press

Ralph Houk was kicking up a dust storm. Ralph Houk was flailing his arms. Ralph Houk was, well, mad.

What's it all about, Ralphie?

"I hope somebody got a picture of the tag," the New York Yankees' skipper snapped after Minnesota's Killebrew was called safe on a critical bang-bang play at home Wednesday night.

See, Houk thought he was out—and let umpire Larry Napp know about it demonstratively. To no avail, though. The Twins followed with another run and later added an insurance tally to take a 3-0 victory behind Jim Perry's four-hitter.

Third Straight

The triumph was the third straight for the Twins after a nine-game tailspin and jumped their American League West Division lead to 5½ games over California, which lost 3-0 to Cleveland.

East Division leader Baltimore turned back Milwaukee 3-2; Chicago ripped Boston 13-5 and Kansas City downed Washington 2-1.

Although Houk praised Perry's performance that cooled the Yankee bats, he was still hot long after the fourth-inning play at home that broke a scoreless tie.

With two out, Killebrew raced home from second on a Rich Reese's two-out single. As Napp waved the safe sign, catcher Jake Gibbs and Houk argued heatedly that the throw from right had beaten the Killer.

"When the catcher turned to make the tag, his glove was behind the plate," said Napp. "The runner slid across the plate and into the glove. I call them like I see them."

Houk Gets Hot

"I think that's ridiculous," said Houk. "An easy-going guy like Jake doesn't get that mad about every play. You could see the slide marks where he didn't make it."

And Killebrew?

"I was safe . . . I was in there," said Charmin' Harmon.

That opened the door for another run on Leo Cardenas' RBI single. And the Twins shut off all post-game debates when Killebrew doubled to score Danny Thompson with an insurance run in the eighth.

Perry, who picked up his 19th victory while dazzling the Yanks in one hour and 46 minutes, was nonchalant through it all. "That's the way I like them—fast. At that rate, I might have been able to go all night."

Dennis Higgins bailed Rich Hand out of a wobbly eighth inning and pinch-hitter Chuck Hinton delivered a run-scoring double in Cleveland's victory over California. It was Hand's fifth victory of the year, and his third straight over the Angels.

Same Old Story, Birds Win

Merv Rettenmund rifled a two-out, run-scoring single in the eighth to snap a 2-2 tie and give the Orioles their victory over the Brewers. It made an 18-game winner of Mike Cuellar and boosted Baltimore's East lead to 11 games over New York.

The White Sox, losing by three going into the ninth, shelled Red Sox hurlers for 11 runs on 10 hits. The cluster tied an American League record held by the New York Yankees for most runs in the ninth inning.

Paul Schaal rapped a leadoff homer in the seventh, snapping a 1-1 tie, and powered Kansas City over Washington. Dick Drago, who hadn't won a game in nearly two months, pitches a four-hitter.

Athletics Halt Tiger Streak

OAKLAND (AP) — Catcher Gene Tenace, who came to the Oakland Athletics as a replacement for another player on summer duty with the Marines, may have earned himself a regular place on the roster.

"We'll certainly take a good look at him," Manager John McNamara said after Tenance collected a pair of singles and scored a run in a 7-0 rout of the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night.

Tigers Streak Ends

The loss broke a four game winning streak the Tigers had collected on their west coast trip against the California Angels and the Oakland club.

The Tigers have the day off today and host the Milwaukee Brewers Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Detroit.

Tenace was brought up from Des Moines a week ago to fill in for catcher Dave Duncan who will be in the service until this weekend. In his brief stay, Tenace is hitting 333.

4-Hit Shutout

Diego Segui, who was pulled out of the bullpen two months ago, pitched a four-hit shutout for his eighth victory of the season.

"I had lots of help," he said "We got runs which I hadn't been getting in the last few games."

Segui still thinks like a relief pitcher. He doesn't like to have runners on base. "I always felt bad if I gave up a run when I came in to pitch in relief. I felt I wasn't doing my job."

As a starter I tried to stay out of trouble by not letting anyone get on base."

Segui struck out six and walked three. He didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning when Bill Freehan singled.

Oakland got all the runs it needed on a second-inning homer by Don Mincher. It was his 21st of the season and came with Sal Bando on base. Oakland scored four insurance runs in the eighth inning.

Houk 'Kicks Up Storm,' But Yankees Bite Dust

By The Associated Press

Ralph Houk was kicking up a dust storm. Ralph Houk was flailing his arms. Ralph Houk was, well, mad.

What's it all about, Ralphie?

"I hope somebody got a picture of the tag," the New York Yankees' skipper snapped after Minnesota's Killebrew was called safe on a critical bang-bang play at home Wednesday night.

See, Houk thought he was out —and let umpire Larry Napp know about it demonstratively. To no avail, though. The Twins followed with another run and later added an insurance tally to take a 3-0 victory behind Jim Perry's four-hitter.

Third Straight

The triumph was the third straight for the Twins after a nine-game tailspin and jumped their American League West Division lead to 5½ games over California, which lost 2-0 to Cleveland.

East Division leader Baltimore turned back Milwaukee 3-2; Chicago ripped Boston 13-5 and Kansas City downed Washington 2-1.

Although Houk praised Perry's performance that cooled the Yankee bats, he was still hot long after the fourth-innig play at home that broke a scoreless tie.

With two out, Killebrew raced home from second on a Rich Reese's two-out single. As Napp waved the safe sign, catcher Jake Gibbs and Houk argued heatedly that the throw from right had beaten the Killer.

"When the catcher turned to make the tag, his glove was behind the plate," said Napp. "The runner slid across the plate and into the glove. I call them like I see them."

Houk Gets Hot

"I think that's ridiculous," said Houk. "An easy-going guy like Jake doesn't get that mad about every play. You could see the slide marks where he didn't make it."

And Killebrew?

"I was safe ... I was in there," said Charmin' Harmon.

That opened the door for another run on Leo Cardenas' RBI single. And the Twins shut off all post-game debates when Killebrew doubled to score Danny Thompson with an insurance run in the eighth.

Perry, who picked up his 18th victory while dazzling the Yanks in one hour and 48 minutes, was nonchalant through it all. "That's the way I like them —fast. At that rate, I might have been able to go all night."

Dennis Higgins bailed Rich Hand out of a wobbly eighth inning and pinch-hitter Chuck Hinton delivered a run-scoring double in Cleveland's victory over California. It was Hand's fifth victory of the year, and his third straight over the Angels.

Same Old Story, Birds Win

Merv Rettenmund rifled a two-out, run-scoring single in the eighth to snap a 2-2 tie and give the Orioles their victory over the Brewers. It made an 18-game winner of Mike Cueller and boosted Baltimore's East lead to 11 games over New York.

The White Sox, losing by three going into the ninth, shelled Red Sox hurlers for 11 runs on 10 hits. The cluster tied an American League record held by the New York Yankees for most runs in the ninth inning.

Paul Schaal rapped a leadoff homer in the seventh, snapping a 1-1 tie, and powered Kansas City over Washington. Dick Drago, who hadn't won a game in nearly two months, pitches a four-hitter.

Safe Drinking Water Program Said Neglected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has placed the great emphasis on ridding streams and rivers of pollution and neglected public drinking water supplies, a water expert charged today.

"For every hundred dollars spent on making rivers safe for fish and wildlife, only one dollar is going to make that river safe for people to drink," Eric F. Johnson said in remarks prepared for the International Water Quality Symposium.

"Water for people has to be the No. 1 priority," he said.

Johnson, executive director of the American Water Works Association, warned "if administration leaders don't wake up to the fact that we aren't drinking polluted water, we soon may be."

"No matter how much you treat sewage, you still have to treat water, but few people in government realize that" he added.

"Interior Secretary Hickel assumes he is drinking Potomac River water as it flows down the stream," Johnson said. "He doesn't know there are waterworks people laboring day and night to convert raw water into a finished product that is pure, palatable and safe."

Johnson said four hundred times as much money is spent on preparing water for dumping as it is on preparing it for drinking. He said the Interior Department has taken the best people away from water supply and put them on pollution.

Government help is needed, Johnson said, in training personnel to handle the more sophisticated equipment needed to cope with increased pollution, setting aside sites for reservoirs, and providing money for research into the nature of new contaminants now going into the water sources.

"Congress, without being asked," Johnson said, "threw $350 million more into pollution programs and grants while water supply has had a time getting $8 million.

"What few in Washington realize, and this goes for President Nixon, is that money spent on pollution control doesn't benefit water supply on a dollar-to-dollar basis," he added.

Johnson said unless action is taken now a crash program will be needed in 5 to 10 years to maintain a water supply. He said the public water service needs three times its present budget of $2.3 million.

The world shooting championships of the International Shooting Union will be held at Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 17-26.

Million Memories Worth Something

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you had a million memories and could sell them for a dollar each, you'd be a millionaire.

But who would part with a wonderful memory for a measly dollar bill? Good memories are priceless—and, anyway, it is more fun to share them than try to put them on the auction block.

Perhaps you don't have a million memories yet. But you've got a pretty good stock if you can look back and remember when—

Bluebirds were so plentiful you could see one almost every day in summer.

A good cook would rather hear her pies or preserves praised than her character. After all, nobody would dare say a word against her character.

There was some perturbation throughout the country when word got around that one of President Woodrow Wilson's favorite sports was tennis. Tennis? Wasn't that a game played between sissies and young ladies?

The old-fashioned icebox had room for only about a fifth of the goodies a modern refrigerator or freezer holds.

Bedbugs were so common in poor neighborhoods that it wasn't so much a question of whether but when a household would be infested by them.

A girl didn't know whether to be pleased or insulted if you told her she looked like Theda Bara, the famous movie vamp.

We were all so young and innocent that a fellow could become the life of a cocktail party simply by putting a lampshade on his head.

Adolf Hitler was painting landscapes—before he learned the art of destroying them.

People were still so friendly that if you got an attack of hiccups on a street car at least 10 strangers among the passengers would volunteer a helpful suggestion on the best way to cure them.

Airplanes were so much of a novelty that lots of folks rode out to the airport every Sunday in hopes of seeing one fall.

Grandma laid down the law to grandpa by informing him that he could either keep his beard or go on chewing tobacco—but he couldn't do both.

You could keep a pet dog from birth until death and never spend more than $5 cash on it for a collar with a brass nameplate.

Every telegram had ten words, and the tenth word always was "love."

Those were the days-remember?

Ford Recalling 85,000 Units Used By Police

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. has agreed to recall and replace at its own expense a portion of the front end suspension on approximately 85,000 police cars sold between 1965 and 1969, the Department of Transportation announced Wednesday.

The department urged the recalls after verifying 90 cases of control arm failures among six million Ford vehicles in the three model years 1967, 1968 and 1969.

Failure of the lower control arm causes the front wheel to splay outward. The failures resulted in one minor collision, and four reported minor injuries, the department said.

Some 53 of the 90 failures were in police pursuit vehicles —predominantly Ford Custom, Custom 500 and Mercury Monterey models.

Despite the 37 front end failures in autos sold for nonpolice use, the department said a recall of these other vehicles was not justified because the "control arms meet the load criteria for normal passenger car use."

The department blamed the control arm failures in police vehicles on severe impacts caused by crossing a median strip or curb at high speed.

The failure rate for police vehicles was set at five-one hundredths of one per cent, and one one-thousandths of one per cent for nonpolice vehicles. Autos from the 1965 and 1966 model years were included in the recall because they use the same type control arm blamed for the incidents in the three later-model years.

The government recall request followed an extensive investigation since March of 554 vehicles—both police and nonpolice—plus surveys of police fleets in 46 cities and states.

The department said the "failures are progressive fatigue failures originating in the vicinity of the ball joint rivet holes, as a result of severe impact loads of the type encountered in police pursuit work."

July Jobless Count In Michigan Tops Since 1961

DETROIT (AP) — Unemployment reached 9.1 per cent of the work force in July, the Michigan Employment Security Commission disclosed Wednesday. It was the highest unemployment percentage for July since 1961, the MESC said.

Total unemployment for July was 326,000, compared to 261,000 or 7.7 per cent of the work force in June.

"It is anticipated that the current level of unemployment will mark the high point for this year and that the idle labor force surplus will decline in August and September," said William R. Ford, MESC director.

"Michigan traditionally reaches its high unemployment mark for the year during the summer months when model changeover layoffs are at their peak."
